Jets Pound Oil Depot In Hanoi Sector

SAIGON, South Vietnam (AP) — U.S. supersonic jets flew past Communist MIGs today to bomb an oil depot 14½ miles from Hanoi. It was the closest major strike to the North Vietnamese capital since the controversy over civilian casualties arose last month.

A U.S. spokesman said American bombers attacked the Ha Gia fuel storage area 14½ miles north-northwest of Hanoi. It had been attacked before on Dec. 2 and 5.

U.S. pilots for a second day took advantage of clearing skies over North Vietnam after more than two months of almost unbroken bad weather.

In forays Sunday American bombers pounded three targets 15 to 40 miles north and northwest of Hanoi, including the Viet Tri railroad yard.

The pilots reported light to heavy ground fire over some target areas Sunday and two flights of Air Force jets sighted MIG21s, but there were no encounters.

Eight American servicemen were killed Sunday when a CH47 Chinook helicopter was shot down in the Mekong Delta about seven miles southwest of Can Tho, a military spokesman said. A ninth man aboard the craft was listed as missing.

The spokesman said he did not yet have results of today's raid on the Ha Gia oil depot. He said pilots reported sighting MIGs during the flights but that there were no clashes.

Ground fighting flared deep in the Mekong Delta as South Vietnamese Rangers reported killing 74 Viet Cong today in a clash two miles from where government forces uncovered a massacre at a Communist prison camp.

A Vietnamese military spokesman said the Viet Cong killed 44 Vietnamese prisoners, most of them civilians, in a camp about 108 miles southwest of Saigon before they pulled out of the area in the face of advancing South Vietnamese troops.

Most of the prisoners, he said, were killed by gunfire and grenades but some showed marks of knifing or bayoneting. The dead included two women and two children, the spokesman said, and added that some of the prisoners were tied up.

Six of the prisoners—five civilians and one soldier—survived and were rescued by Vietnamese troops.

Two miles from the prison camp, the elite 42nd South Vietnamese Ranger battalion clashed with an estimated 500 Viet Cong this morning. The Rangers, holders of a U.S. presidential citation from President Johnson, reported killing 74 Viet Cong with support from air strikes and artillery. They also seized 10 enemy weapons and reported no casualties to their own force.

South Vietnamese headquarters also reported that government troops killed 66 Viet Cong in four engagements Sunday in the Mekong Delta and 46 Communist soldiers in an action in northernmost Quang Tri Province 419 miles northeast of Saigon.

U.S. military headquarters reported a steadily mounting toll of Communists killed or captured in Operation Cedar Falls in the "iron triangle" north of Saigon and the termination of Operation Deckhouse 5 in the Mekong Delta.

Private Army Set Up By Liu Against Mao

Force Described As 'Defenders Of Red State Power'

TOKYO (AP) — One of Mao Tse-tung's mouthpieces, the theoretical journal Red Flag, reported Sunday that President Liu Shao-chi has formed a private army against Mao.

Red Flag described Liu's force as the "army of defenders of red state power" and said it was created to protect a handful of persons practicing "bourgeois dictatorship."

It gave no details and did not say whether the army was military, paramilitary or just political in nature. But it claimed the 2.5-million-man Red Chinese army is "infinitely loyal to Chairman Mao, loyal to the people."

The article confirmed what has become increasingly apparent in the past two weeks, that Liu's men "in varving degrees still hold party, political and financial power in the localities and units in which they are entrenched."

Blaze Wipes Out Pottery Displays

Three East Liverpool district potteries lost exhibits of their 1967 wares in a fire which destroyed the main public area of McCormick Pl. Exhibition Hall in Chicago early today.

The Homer Laughlin China Co. of Newell, the Hall China Co. of East Liverpool and the Taylor, Smith & Taylor Co. of Chester were to present their new lines to wholesale buyers during the annual National Housewares Manufacturers Association Show, which was to have opened today and continue through Friday.

The destruction means a loss of several thousand dollars to each of the firms, but the biggest loss is in the opportunity to exhibit the lines to buyers, a spokesman commented.

The big hall is located on Lake Michigan, just south of downtown Chicago.

A security guard who discovered the blaze was credited with saving the lives of some 150 persons in the building by racing through the halls ahead of the smoke and flames and warning them to flee.

The roof of the three-block-long structure caved in less than an hour after firemen arrived on the scene. A 200-foot section of the west wall buckled and collapsed.

The main exhibition hall, about the size of six football fields, was a total loss, said Edward J. Lee, general manager of the hall.

The hall was still burning shortly after 6 a.m. Firemen were attempting to save the lower level, which contains a theatre, restaurants and meeting rooms.

Fire Commissioner Robert Quinn said the building was 50 per cent destroyed.

Quinn said the northwest wing of the $35-million structure was ablaze within seven minutes after the first of a series of small explosions. He said the cause of the explosions and the fire were not known.

Fire officials said the blaze

Rusk Faces Senate Quiz On Vietnam

Likely To Defend Policy On Bombing Of North Targets

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Senate Foreign Relations Committee questions Secretary of State Dean Rusk today on Vietnam policy. He's expected to defend the U.S. bombing of targets in North Vietnam.

Committee Chairman J. W. Fulbright, D-Ark., and Senate Democratic Leader Mike Mansfield, a member of the committee, repeated their doubts about U.S. policy in Vietnam on the eve of the closed hearing, indicating Rusk faces critical questioning.

Rusk is scheduled for a public hearing before the committee next Monday. A public hearing last February produced Rusk's hottest exchanges with committee members.

Amidst some reports that bombing in the immediate area of Hanoi has been curtailed in the past month, Mansfield and Fulbright each questioned whether bombing has brought North Vietnam any nearer the peace conference table.

"The bombing has hurt them to a degree," Mansfield told an interviewer. "But it is questionable whether the goals sought in the bombing were achieved."

There were also these comments or developments on the war:

The five freshman Republican senators, in a joint appearance, split 3 to 2 in favor of continuing the bombing.

Oath Of Office Given 2 New City Patrolmen

Two new police department patrolmen appointed last week by Safety - Service Director Robert E. Vodrey took the oath of office this morning from Municipal Judge Samuel M. Chertoff.

James Wesley Woods, 29, of 1228 Ceramic St. and Homer C. Dillon, 23, of 6th Ave., LaCroft, were sworn in as Vodrey and Police Chief A. J. Radeschi looked on. Woods is a former potter and Dillon was employed as a truck driver.

Seeks Way To Avoid Tax Hike

Dirksen Says Space Fund Place To Slash Spending

WASHINGTON (AP) — Senate Republican Leader Everett M. Dirksen, looking for ways to avoid a tax increase, says the space program could be the place to cut government expenditures.

Dirksen said "I've been looking at that space program. I don't mind telling you. Does it really make a difference whether we get to the moon this year, or next year, or the following year?

"I doubt very much whether it makes a great deal of difference," he said Sunday on ABC's "Issues and Answers." "And if we reconcile ourselves to that then, then of course there is a place where you can make a very substantial (budget) cut."

Sen. Russell B. Long, D-La., said Sunday on CBS' "Face the Nation" that cuts in federal spending are the key to the tax issue. He said there "is no economic case" for the 6 per cent income tax surcharge asked by President Johnson. Long said it "would tend to retard the economy."

He expressed doubt it would soon be approved.

Five freshmen Republican senators said on the NBC television-radio program "Meet the Press" they would have to be shown there was no other way to finance the Vietnam war be.

Order Book Through The Review

Readers Offered 'World In 1966'

The Review again is offering its readers an opportunity to obtain a great book of history — "The World in 1966" compiled by The Associated Press.

Three years ago the editors of the AP had an inspiration. The final result was a historic volume entitled "The World in 1964."

Unlike the usual almanac or year-end book with tabular chronology and dry facts, the AP book covered the events of that newsworthy year in typical news-writing style — easy to read, factually accurate and sprinkled with dramatic news pictures in color and black and white. The story of the year unfolds in a style somewhat like that of a novel and yet all the facts are there handily indexed for reference.

THE SUCCESS of the book was such that it was continued the following year with "The World in 1965" at double the print order. Now as the new year gets under way, the editors are busy compiling the facts and arranging the stories and pictures in preparation of "The World in 1966."

It will follow the same popular style as its predecessors, recreating the excitement and flavor of the year in dramatic stories and pictures. It is history that all of us saw in the making.

Since the book will cover events in all 12 months it will not be off the presses until early February. The Review—and other newspapers affiliated with The Associated Press — will offer the book to its readers.

Seeks Way To Avoid Tax Hike

Dirksen Says Space Fund Place To Slash Spending

WASHINGTON (AP) — Senate Republican Leader Everett M. Dirksen, looking for ways to avoid a tax increase, says the space program could be the place to cut government expenditures.

Dirksen said "I've been looking at that space program. I don't mind telling you. Does it really make a difference whether we get to the moon this year, or next year, or the following year?

"I doubt very much whether it makes a great deal of difference," he said Sunday on ABC's "Issues and Answers." "And if we reconcile ourselves to that thesis, then of course there is a place where you can make a very substantial (budget) cut."

Sen. Russell B. Long, D-La., said Sunday on CBS' "Face the Nation" that cuts in federal spending are the key to the tax issue. He said there "is no economic case" for the 6 per cent income tax surcharge asked by President Johnson. Long said it "would tend to retard the economy."

He expressed doubt it would soon be approved.

Five freshmen Republican senators said on the NBC television-radio program "Meet the Press" they would have to be shown there was no other way to finance the Vietnam war be

Order Book Through The Review

Readers Offered 'World In 1966'

The Review again is offering its readers an opportunity to obtain a great book of history — "The World in 1966" compiled by The Associated Press.

Three years ago the editors of the AP had an inspiration. The final result was a historic volume entitled "The World in 1964."

Unlike the usual almanac or year-end book with tabular chronology and dry facts, the AP book covered the events of that newsworthy year in typical news-writing style — easy to read, factually accurate and sprinkled with dramatic news pictures in color and black and white. The story of the year unfolds in a style somewhat like that of a novel and yet all the facts are there handily indexed for reference.

THE SUCCESS of the book was such that it was continued the following year with "The World in 1965" at double the print order. Now as the new year gets under way, the editors are busy compiling the facts and arranging the stories and pictures in preparation of "The World in 1966."

It will follow the same popular style as its predecessors, recreating the excitement and flavor of the year in dramatic stories and pictures. It is history that all of us saw in the making.

Since the book will cover events in all 12 months it will not be off the presses until early February. The Review—and other newspapers affiliated with The Associated Press — will offer the book to its readers.

The five are Sens. Charles H. Percy of Illinois, Mark O. Hatfield of Oregon, Edward W. Brooke of Massachusetts, Howard H. Baker Jr. of Tennessee and Clifford P. Hansen of Wyoming.

Over the weekend, the government made public a mixed bag of economic statistics. The figures were topped by a record $739.5 billion production of goods and services during 1966, up $58.3 billion from the gross national product of 1965 and more than $17 billion ahead of the predictions made by Johnson a year ago.

But 36 per cent of that increase was chalked up to inflation.

The figures also showed increasing inventories, frequently a harbinger of economic downturn. Inventories went from $9.9 billion in the third quarter to $14.4 billion in the fourth quarter.

The physical volume of production during 1966 was up 5.4 per cent, slightly below the 6 per cent rise of 1965 which the government called "very strong."

The President's economic report scheduled for submission to Congress next week is expected to predict a gross national product of about $785 billion to $790 billion in 1967.

broke out in a booth being constructed in the main exhibition hall for the national housewares exhibit, which was scheduled to open later today.

All of the merchandise brought in to the hall for the show was reported to have been either destroyed or heavily damaged.

Some 1,230 exhibit booths had been constructed in the main hall for the housewares show, said a representative of the general contracting firm which built most of the exhibits. He said the value of some of the exhibits was as high as $100,000.

The structure, which covers nearly 10 acres, was opened in November 1960. Besides the main exhibit hall, the building contained a 5,000-seat theatre, food-service facilities capable of handling 30,000 persons, a recital hall, art gallery and numerous meeting rooms.

McCormick Place was named for the late editor and publisher of the Chicago Tribune, Col. Robert R. McCormick. That newspaper had advocated the construction of "the best convention hall in America" since 1927.

Recently a $15-million expansion of the hall was approved. It would have added 200,000 square feet to the existing 500,000 square feet.

BEAVER — A corner's jury Saturday recommended legal action against Kenneth Alborn, 37, of Fombell R.D. 1 in connection with a Jan. 3 traffic accident which claimed the life of his father, Ira W. Alborn, 66, of Fombell R. D. 1.

Pennsylvania state police at Chippewa said a conference is planned with the Beaver County district attorney's office as a result of the inquest recommendation.

The elder Alborn was a passenger in his son's car, which failed to halt for a stop signal at the intersection of Route 588 and Lancaster Rd. and was struck by a large truck, hurling the passenger against a service station concrete gasoline pump foundation.

broke out in a booth being constructed in the main exhibition hall for the national housewares exhibit, which was scheduled to open later today.

All of the merchandise brought in to the hall for the show was reported to have been either destroyed or heavily damaged.

Some 1,230 exhibit booths had been constructed in the main hall for the housewares show, said a representative of the general contracting firm which built most of the exhibits. He said the value of some of the exhibits was as high as $100,000.

The structure, which covers nearly 10 acres, was opened in November 1960. Besides the main exhibit hall, the building contained a 5,000-seat theatre, food-service facilities capable of handling 30,000 persons, a recital hall, art gallery and numerous meeting rooms.

McCormick Place was named for the late editor and publisher of the Chicago Tribune, Col. Robert R. McCormick. That newspaper had advocated the construction of "the best convention hall in America" since 1927.

Recently a $15-million expansion of the hall was approved. It would have added 200,000 square feet to the existing 500,000 square feet.

No End Is In Sight

Ambassador Henry Cabot Lodge has deepened an impression already made by others — that military success in Vietnam will be only the end of the beginning of the U.S. effort — not the beginning of the end.

Even the most optimistic prospect for ending what President Johnson speaks of as the "agony" in Southeast Asia runs into an indefinite span of years.

Pessimistic prospects level off at forever: that the United States never will finish its task in Vietnam; that it will be there and in Korea ad infinitum.

What is behind these forbidding estimates of time, when it already has been conceded that military victory for the still undeclared enemy is out of the question?

Eventually, the military phase of the war will end.

The next phase of the U.S. effort there will be more complex than fighting a war. The complexity of the forthcoming task accounts for the prospect of an indefinite period of time for its completion.

It is to bring security to the villages and peasants of South Vietnam.

It is to assure them they can go about their daily lives without fear of being kidnaped, or perhaps killed, by terrorists.

It is to show them how they can govern themselves locally, without being dependent on dictatorial authority.

It is to build a viable society in a nation that came into existence by fiat, with no preparation for popular government.

The United States has undertaken to build a civilization in South Vietnam.

It is committed to win a war against an armed enemy on the battlefield and a struggle against ignorance in the rice paddies.

It has been a century since civil war ceased in the United States, yet the agony of reconstruction in the Deep South still continues. It is easy to understand why no prudent government spokesman is going to set a time limit for getting out of Vietnam.

The United States already has been in Korea 14 years — and no end is in sight there, either.

Human Security At Stake

A bill to abolish capital punishment, if brought before the Ohio General Assembly this year, is expected to meet the fate of others before it—defeat.

It has not been any barbaric instinct of Ohio legislators that has led to the downfall of such bills; it has been an honest decision that a capital punishment statute is necessary for the security of the citizens of Ohio.

Debate over the life-taking law has raged all over the United States. Despite the fact 37 states still impose capital punishment, use of the measure is dying out.

As far as the U.S. Bureau of Prisons knows, James D. French, a convicted murderer electrocuted in the Oklahoma State Prison at McAlester last Aug. 10, was the only person executed in the United States in 1966.

Three decades ago, executions were common; no fewer than 199 were carried out in 1935. Then the number began to decline, reaching 42 in 1961 and only seven in 1965.

IN ONE OF his last official acts as governor of California, Edmund G. Brown on Dec. 28 commuted to life imprisonment the death sentences of four murders in the death row at San Quentin Prison. The last execution in San Quentin's gas chamber took place almost four years ago.

With the increasing hesitancy of juries to bring in guilty verdicts on murder cases, prosecutors are becoming more selective in asking for the death penalty.

With the reduced number of executions, those convicted and given prison terms are subject to the rehabilitation programs advocated by opponents of capital punishment.

In this manner they are winning their battle although the law still is in force in many states.

A POLICE OFFICER carrying out his duty needs the reassurance that there is at least one strong deterrent designed to make a criminal think twice before shooting him.

We can't copy the ostrich's head-hiding trick and hope the stark reality of brutal, savage killings will go a w a y. It won't. That is why capital punishment has a place in Ohio's laws.

J. Edgar Hoover has said, "Certainly, penetrative and searching thought must be given before considering any blanket cessation of capital punishment in a time when unspeakable crimes are being committed. The savagely mutilated bodies and mentally ravaged victims of murderers, rapists and other criminal beasts beg consideration when the evidence is weighed on both sides of the scales of justice."

If our collective freedom was threatened by an invasion from another country, we would throw troops and civilians into the fray to maim and kill until the invaders retreated. We might not like what we were doing, but we would do it.

How can we rationally apply a different set of standards when individual rights are abused?

Betwixt And Between

By Truman Twill

I am getting used to mini-skirts.

I finally am able to view the effect without steaming my glasses or stammering.

When one of the things shows up on color TV, as one did on a comely actress on the Johnny Carson show recently, I have enough composure to pretend I still am reading the magazine I am pretending to read.

Formerly, I would drop the magazine, go into a coughing fit, wipe my glasses and move up closer to the screen, on the pretext of making adjustments on the color regulator.

What this adds up to in my well-regulated life is successful adjustment to a phenomenon that threw me into a tizzy when I encountered it the first time.

It was in a restaurant in London, when mini-skirts were just coming into vogue there. They were nowhere near as short then as they are now, but they were short enough to make an aging U. S. visitor wonder if they were to be taken seriously.

You can get used to anything; that's what it amounts to. I take them seriously.

But while I have been getting used to mini-skirts and now can regard what is revealed without boggling, I despair of getting used to a companion style — long pants on women.

Just when it become possible for me to shrug off the spectacle of two bony knees and a slab-sized chunk of thigh as "comme il faut," I was confronted with an increasing number of women in lumberjack outfits.

You are sitting in a restaurant, casting covert glances at some female custome who presents a pleasing appearance from the table top up.

She rises to leave the place and you swing around to fixed focus to see the mini-skirt — and what do you see?

She is encased in a pants suit. She is wearing boots halfway to her knees. She might as well be a fur trapper on leave from the Hudson's Bay Co.

There is no middle ground any more, except in the case of aging ladies who will die first before shortening their skirts and would not be caught dead or alive in a pants suit.

While these aging ladies are not to be dismissed with a glance, especially by aging men, they are out of the swim, fashion-wise.

If their legs are too gnarled and knobby for mini-skirts — as they usually are — they have everything to lose and nothing to gain by switching to pants suits.

If they make the gross hot-weather error of switching to shorts, they not only have everything to lose. They've lost it.

The other sex is in what could be called a state of frantic extremity — and all-or-nothing dilemma.

The mini-skirt fad is more than they can handle and will burn itself out in a few more inches.

The pants-suit fad is going nowhere It already is at the end of the line.

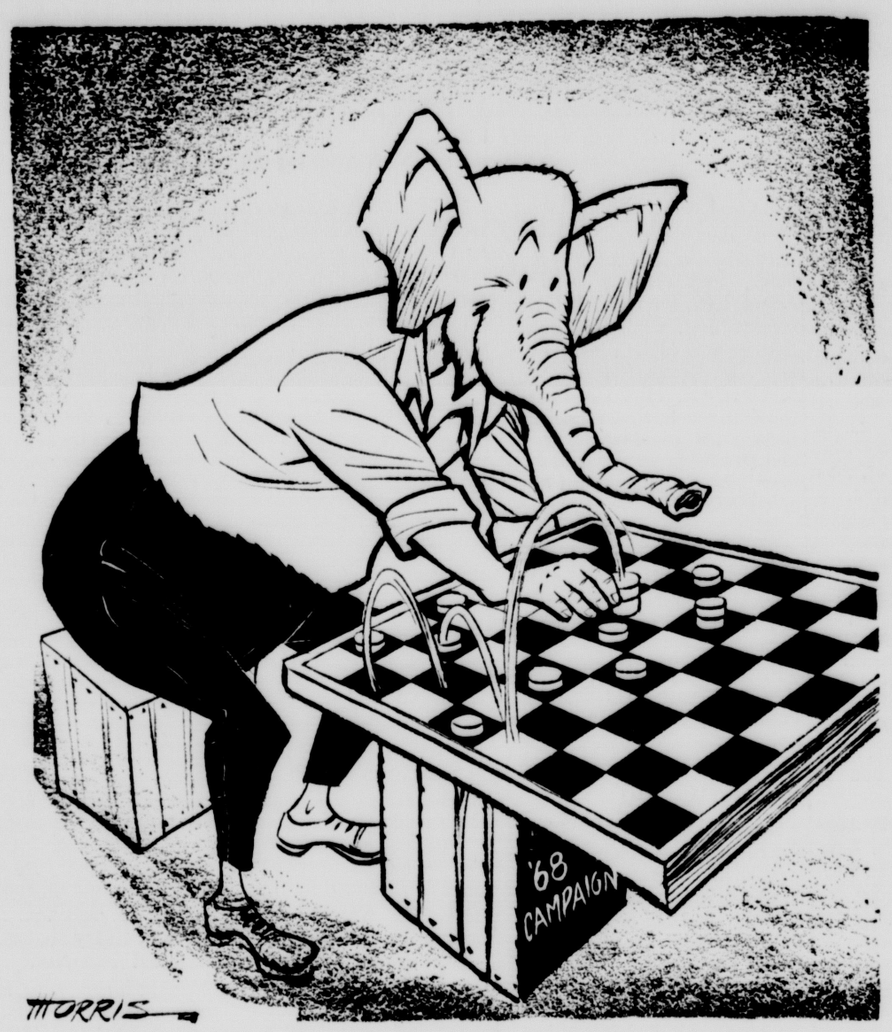

Those aging ladies who won't shorten their skirts and have no intention of wearing pants suits to hide their shortcomings will be the bellwethers of the next fashion fad — honest-to-goodness skirts.

Can't Wait For The Game To Start!

The China-Watcher

By Art Buchwald

WASHINGTON

It isn't easy to be a China-watcher these days. Not only do you have to watch what is going on there, but you have to interpret the significance of the events instantly.

Art Buchwald

I went over to see a China-watcher f r i e n d of mine at the State Department. He was bleary-eyed and looked as if he hadn't slept for several nights.

"Watching China isn't what it used to be," he said wearily. "All we had to do in the old days was read the Peking newspapers and see who was standing next to Mao Tse-tung; then we could take the rest of the afternoon off and play golf. But now being a China-watcher is a seven-day-a week job, and we still don't know if what we're watching is what is really happening there."

"Could you briefly sum up in your own words how you see the situation?" I said.

"AS FAR AS I can tell, there seems to be some kind of power struggle going on between the anti-party Maoists and the anti-Mao partyists. It started with the purging of writers Wu Han and Kuo Mo-jo and then went on to party bosses Teng Ho and Li Chi. After that they took off on Pen Chen and Lu Ting-yi and Li Hsueh Feng, not to mention Chou En-lai."

"Who did?"

"Lin Piao, Li Chin and Mrs. Mao."

"I always suspected they were up to no good," I said.

"Did I tell you about Liu Shao-chi?" he asked.

"I can't remember."

Well, he was replaced by Lin Piao as Mao's heir apparent and denounced by Tao Chu. This was followed by Peng Teh-huai's arrest, and it didn't do Marshal Ho Lung any good, either."

"But why?" I demanded.

"Because, obviously, they were thinking un-Mao thoughts. You must try to understand that there is a power struggle going on between those who think Mao and those who don't think Mao. We think the leader of the think-Mao school is Ching."

"Who's he?"

"It's not a he. It's a she. Chiang Ching is the maiden name of Mrs. Mao Tse-tung. She seems to be running the show with Chen Po-ta."

"Who is she?"

"CHEN PO-TA is a he, and he was responsible for the imprisonment of Chou Yang."

"Poor Chou Yang," I said. "He deserved better than that. Let me ask you something. Whose side are we on?"

"Of course," he replied, "we're always anti-Mao, but at the same time it would be premature to be pro-Liu, Tao Peng, Feng and Ping."

"How about Chou?"

"I wouldn't trust him as far as I could throw Chen."

"You're down on Chen?"

"As far as I'm concerned Chen and Ching are the same thing."

"I'm glad I talked to you," I said. "You certainly cleared up everything for me."

"Don't mention it. The one trouble with watching Red Chinese politics is that you think you've had your fill of it, but an hour later you're hungry again."

Letter From Max

By Martin Miller

Dear Truman Twill:

With massive U.S. intervention in what apparently started as a civil war in South Vietnam, it might be interesting to raise a lot of "ifs" and consider what could have happened in our own Civil War if France and Britain had interceded on the side of the South.

The North blockaded Confederate ports and had some close calls on starting a shooting war with Britain. The British were selling fighting ships to the South and munitions to the North, working both sides of the street, but British and French government sympathies were said to lie with the South.

Only the North's victories at Gettysburg and Vicksburg in the summer of 1863 are credited with definitely keeping Britain and France from joining the South in the war.

Both of these European countries had disastrous experiences in land wars on the American continent, so if they had decided to take a greater part in the war they probably would have started by sending only military advisers to assist the South.

As it was, they limited themselves to supplying major military items such as ships, because they may have been reluctant to become engaged in conventional land warfare with the massive ground armies of the North.

But as the tide slowly turned against the Confederacy, their military advisers would have proved inadequate and there would have been great pressure from the South and from their own military establishments for committing ground troops in our Civil War.

As had been shown in previous wars, these conventional troops from Europe probably would have been at a disadvantage trying to search and destroy the many American guerrilla units which were fighting for their homeland on familiar terrain which was alien to the Europeans.

The British had already suffered in the American Revolutionary War at the hands of Francis Marion, guerrilla leader known as the "Swamp Fox," who operated in South Carolina.

The North had counterparts for such well known Confederate guerrillas as William Clark Quantrill, who raided in Kansas and Missouri, and Confederate Gen. John Hunt Morgan, whose raids swept through Kentucky, Indiana and Ohio before his capture.

Who can say how long our Civil War might have lasted and what international bitterness been engendered had circumstances been such that France and Britain intervened actively on the side of the South.

In looking up the Civil War in an encyclopedia my eye fell on the word Clackmannanshire. For your information, Twill, Clackmannanshire, despite its long name, is the smallest county in Scotland, with only 55 square miles. Being in Scotland, naturally, one of its products is whisky.

I didn't want to risk disrupting things in midseason, so now that football is about over for another year, I suggest football marching bands in their half-time shows stick to march music and forget about Broadway hit tunes. Bands should play band music, not musical comedy music.

Faithfully yours,
MAX

Hodgepodge

By David Lawrence

Views On Vietnam Differ

WASHINGTON

Eight men in public life, giving their views on how to handle the war in Vietnam, produced a hodgepodge. But at least it gave an insight into the lonely job of President Johnson who must make the decisions.

The most indisputable fact of the war so far is that Johnson, criticized no matter what he does, can't please everyone if only because, it seems, everyone has his own ideas on what should be done.

The eight men demonstrated it over the weekend: Six Republican senators, one Democratic senator and Michigan's Republican governor, George Romney. All, except Romney, had their say on Sunday television and radio.

ROMNEY IS apparently not one of the best-informed people on Vietnam. So far his ideas have been vague. Until this past weekend he had stayed mum on Vietnam since his election to a third term in Michigan last November.

Even before that he was quiet about it. He had made hash of his ideas on this subject at a news conference last July. He was reported to be anxious to bone up on Vietnam before saying anything about it again. This past weekend he talked to some Washington newsmen.

He said Johnson's decision to prosecute the war, while searching for a way to end it, may have prolonged it. He was said to have expressed the view in private conversations that Johnson didn't push the war hard enough.

Romney said he wonders if there hasn't been too much American reliance on bombing North Vietnam in an effort to destroy enemy supplies. But he didn't explain what he would have done to do better.

Sen. Russell B. Long of Louisiana, one of the Democratic leaders in the Senate, on CBS "Face the Nation" urged that the United States "bear down" harder to win the war. For example, by intensifying and expanding the bombing.

He thought this should be done, he said, even at the risk of war with Red China and the Soviet Union.

But the Republicans' Senate leader, Everett M. Dirksen, expressed misgiving about another part of the struggle with the North Vietnamese Communists.

Dirksen, on ABC "Issues and Answers," didn't oppose the bombing, but questioned whether the Johnson administration is prepared for an end to the fighting. He said it would be surrender to let the Viet Cong take part in the peace talks.

And, Dirksen said, he didn't think this country had looked far enough down the road to chart the course it will follow when the shooting stops.

BUT IT WAS on NBC "Meet the P r e s s" that viewers had a chance to see how thoroughly views on the war can get mixed up. On this program five newly - elected Republican senators were asked what they thought.

One of them, Mark O. Hatfield of Oregon, said the bombing has been unsuccessful "so I ask the question, why continue it?"

Edward W. Brooke of Massachusetts was less emphatic, sounded more undecided. He called for a re-evaluation of the bombing policy. He said he would stop the bombing if it w o u l d bring peace but said "I favor re-evaluation."

But the Johnson administration already has expressed willingness to end the bombing, provided the North Vietnamese first give some solid indication to slow the fighting.

This was the view held by the other three Republican senators: Charles H. Percy of Illinois; Dirksen's son-in-law, Howard H. Baker, Jr., of Tennessee; and Clifford P. Hansen of Wyoming. Percy pretty much expressed the views of the other two.

The bombing was the United States' one advantage and before this country stops the bombing, the Communists must give something in return, like de-escalating the war, he said.

None of these views was new. Johnson has had to think of all of them. And they expressed only some, and not all, of the views in this country about Vietnam. Johnson has to cope with all of them in fighting the war.

While these aging ladies are not to be dismissed with a glance, especially by aging men, they are out of the swim, fashion-wise.

If their legs are too gnarled and knobby for mini-skirts — as they usually are — they have everything to lose and nothing to gain by switching to pants suits.

If they make the gross hot-weather error of switching to shorts, they not only have everything to lose. They've lost it.

The other sex is in what could be called a state of frantic extremity — and all-or-nothing dilemma.

The mini-skirt fad is more than they can handle and will burn itself out in a few more inches.

The pants-suit fad is going nowhere It already is at the end of the line.

Those aging ladies who won't shorten their skirts and have no intention of wearing pants suits to hide their shortcomings will be the bell-wethers of the next fashion fad — honest-to-goodness skirts.

The China-Watcher

By Art Buchwald

WASHINGTON

It isn't easy to be a China-watcher these days. Not only do you have to watch what is going on there, but you have to interpret the significance of the events instantly.

Art Buchwald

I went over to see a China-watcher friend of mine at the State Department. He was bleary-eyed and looked as if he hadn't slept for several nights.

"Watching China isn't what it used to be," he said wearily. "All we had to do in the old days was read the Peking newspapers and see who was standing next to Mao Tse-tung; then we could take the rest of the afternoon off and play golf. But now being a China-watcher is a seven-day-a week job, and we still don't know if what we're watching is what is really happening there."

"Could you briefly sum up in your own words how you see the situation?" I said.

"AS FAR AS I can tell, there seems to be some kind of power struggle going on between the anti-party Maoists and the anti-Mao partyists. It started with the purging of writers Wu Han and Kuo Mo-jo and then went on to party bosses Teng Ho and Li Chi. After that they took off on Pen Chen and Lu Ting-yi and Li Hsueh Feng, not to mention Chou En-lai."

"Who did?"

"Lin Piao, Li Chin and Mrs. Mao."

"I always suspected they were up to no good," I said.

"Did I tell you about Liu Shao-chi?" he asked.

"I can't remember."

Well, he was replaced by Lin Piao as Mao's heir apparent and denounced by Tao Chu. This was followed by Peng Teh-huai's arrest, and it didn't do Marshal Ho Lung any good, either."

"But why?" I demanded.

"Because, obviously, they were thinking un-Mao thoughts. You must try to understand that there is a power struggle going on between those who think Mao and those who don't think Mao. We think the leader of the think-Mao school is Ching."

"Who's he?"

"It's not a he. It's a she. Chiang Ching is the maiden name of Mrs. Mao Tse-tung. She seems to be running the show with Chen Po-ta."

"Who is she?"

"CHEN PO-TA is a he, and he was responsible for the imprisonment of Chou Yang."

"Poor Chou Yang," I said. "He deserved better than that. Let me ask you something. Whose side are we on?"

"Of course," he replied, "we're always anti-Mao, but at the same time it would be premature to be pro-Liu, Tao Peng, Feng and Ping."

"How about Chou?"

"I wouldn't trust him as far as I could throw Chen."

"You're down on Chen?"

"As far as I'm concerned Chen and Ching are the same thing."

"I'm glad I talked to you," I said. "You certainly cleared up everything for me."

"Don't mention it. The one trouble with watching Red Chinese politics is that you think you've had your fill of it, but an hour later you're hungry again."

Letter From Max

By Martin Miller

Dear Truman Twill:

With massive U.S. intervention in what apparently started as a civil war in South Vietnam, it might be interesting to raise a lot of "ifs" and consider what could have happened in our own Civil War if France and Britain had interceded on the side of the South.

The North blockaded Confederate ports and had some close calls on starting a shooting war with Britain. The British were selling fighting ships to the South and munitions to the North, working both sides of the street, but British and French government sympathies were said to lie with the South.

Only the North's victories at Gettysburg and Vicksburg in the summer of 1863 are credited with definitely keeping Britain and France from joining the South in the war.

Both of these European countries had disastrous experiences in land wars on the American continent, so if they had decided to take a greater part in the war they probably would have started by sending only military advisers to assist the South.

As it was, they limited themselves to supplying major military items such as ships, because they may have been reluctant to become engaged in conventional land warfare with the massive ground armies of the North.

But as the tide slowly turned against the Confederacy, their military advisers would have proved inadequate and there would have been great pressure from the South and from their own military establishments for committing ground troops in our Civil War.

As had been shown in previous wars, these conventional troops from Europe probably would have been at a disadvantage trying to search and destroy the many American guerrilla units which were fighting for their homeland on familiar terrain which was alien to the Europeans.

The British had already suffered in the American Revolutionary War at the hands of Francis Marion, guerrilla leader known as the "Swamp Fox," who operated in South Carolina.

The North had counterparts for such well known Confederate guerrillas as William Clark Quantrill, who raided in Kansas and Missouri, and Confederate Gen. John Hunt Morgan, whose raids swept through Kentucky, Indiana and Ohio before his capture.

Who can say how long our Civil War might have lasted and what international bitterness been engendered had circumstances been such that France and Britain intervened actively on the side of the South.

In looking up the Civil War in an encyclopedia my eye fell on the word Clackmannanshire. For your information, Twill, Clackmannanshire, despite its long name, is the smallest county in Scotland, with only 55 square miles. Being in Scotland, naturally, one of its products is whisky.

I didn't want to risk disrupting things in midseason, so now that football is about over for another year, I suggest football marching bands in their half-time shows stick to march music and forget about Broadway hit tunes. Bands should play band music, not musical comedy music.

Faithfully yours,
MAX

Hodgepodge

By David Lawrence

Views On Vietnam Differ

WASHINGTON

Eight men in public life, giving their views on how to handle the war in Vietnam, produced a hodgepodge. But at least it gave an insight into the lonely job of President Johnson who must make the decisions.

The most indisputable fact of the war so far is that Johnson, criticized no matter what he does, can't please everyone if only because, it seems, everyone has his own ideas on what should be done.

The eight men demonstrated it over the weekend: Six Republican senators, one Democratic senator and Michigan's Republican governor, George Romney. All, except Romney, had their say on Sunday television and radio.

ROMNEY IS apparently not one of the best-informed people on Vietnam. So far his ideas have been vague. Until this past weekend he had stayed mum on Vietnam since his election to a third term in Michigan last November.

Even before that he was quiet about it. He had made hash of his ideas on this subject at a news conference last July. He was reported to be anxious to bone up on Vietnam before saying anything about it again. This past weekend he talked to some Washington newsmen.

He said Johnson's decision to prosecute the war, while searching for a way to end it, may have prolonged it. He was said to have expressed the view in private conversations that Johnson didn't push the war hard enough.

Romney said he wonders if there hasn't been too much American reliance on bombing North Vietnam in an effort to destroy enemy supplies. But he didn't explain what he would have done to do better.

Sen. Russell B. Long of Louisiana, one of the Democratic leaders in the Senate, on CBS "Face the Nation" urged that the United States "bear down" harder to win the war. For example, by intensifying and expanding the bombing.

He thought this should be done, he said, even at the risk of war with Red China and the Soviet Union.

But the Republicans' Senate leader, Everett M. Dirksen, expressed misgiving about another part of the struggle with the North Vietnamese Communists.

Dirksen, on ABC "Issues and Answers," didn't oppose the bombing, but questioned whether the Johnson administration is prepared for an end to the fighting. He said it would be surrender to let the Viet Cong take part in the peace talks.

And, Dirksen said, he didn't think this country had looked far enough down the road to chart the course it will follow when the shooting stops.

BUT IT WAS on NBC "Meet the Press" that viewers had a chance to see how thoroughly views on the war can get mixed up. On this program five newly - elected Republican senators were asked what they thought.

One of them, Mark O. Hatfield of Oregon, said the bombing has been unsuccessful "so I ask the question, why continue it?"

Edward W. Brooke of Massachusetts was less emphatic, sounded more undecided. He called for a re-evaluation of the bombing policy. He said he would stop the bombing if it would bring peace but said "I favor re-evaluation."

But the Johnson administration already has expressed willingness to end the bombing, provided the North Vietnamese first give some solid indication to slow the fighting.

This was the view held by the other three Republican senators: Charles H. Percy of Illinois; Dirksen's son-in-law, Howard H. Baker, Jr., of Tennessee; and Clifford P. Hansen of Wyoming. Percy pretty much expressed the views of the other two.

The bombing was the United States' one advantage and before this country stops the bombing, the Communists must give something in return, like de-escalating the war, he said.

None of these views was new. Johnson has had to think of all of them. And they expressed only some, and not all, of the views in this country about Vietnam. Johnson has to cope with all of them in fighting the war.

Legion Commander Asks 3 Steps To Help End War

The American Legion's national commander, John E. Davis, told a news conference in Weirton Saturday that the American military effort in South Vietnam is making progress and suggested certain actions whereby the Legion believes more progress could be made at perhaps a more rapid rate.

Davis, who returned to the United States about a month ago from a tour of South Vietnam, said from his personal observations he was convinced that American military men in that country are the finest this country has ever placed on a field of combat.

He also praised the leadership of our forces there. Davis said the morale of the troops he visited was "the very highest." While in Vietnam, Davis visited with troops of the 1st Calvary Division, the 1st Division, Navy, Marines, Air Force and Coast Guard personnel.

—:—

THE LEGION chief, who resides in Bismark, N.D., and who twice served as governor of North Dakota, said the Legion favors three courses of action which he said will help speed the successful conclusion of the conflict. Davis did say, prior to enumerating his proposals, that he personally didn't feel the United States would win "an unconditional surrender" type victory. He said we probably will end up with "a Korean-type victory." He also said he felt the war was de-escalating as far as military actions were concerned. He declined to predict just how much longer the conflict will continue. Davis then listed his three proposals to end the war.

1. — Permit military commanders in the field to select military targets to be hit in North Vietnam. Davis said he thought military rather than political judgment should have priority here.

AMERICAN LEGION National Comdr. John E. Davis, left, was greeted Saturday by John A. Jones of American Legion Post 10 of Weirton prior to the banquet in Davis' honor Saturday at the Pleasant Valley Country Club.

2. — Deny the Viet Cong and the North Vietnamese the sanctuary of Laos and Cambodia. Our government should make it clear to these governments bordering South Viet Nam that we will no longer permit sanctuary, Davis said. "We are endangering American lives by permitting these enemy units to go beyond the border to regroup, recuperate and then return to battle."

3. — We should deny the enemy the use of the port of Haiphong for military traffic and thus help dry up the source of military supplies to their troops in combat. The Viet Cong are making repeated efforts to sink a ship in a strategic spot to block the Saigon River between Saigon and the sea, and their purpose is exactly the same as ours would be in blockading the port of Haiphong.

Davis said our forces in Vietnam" deserve the whole-hearted support of the American people for the magnificent job they are doing in the defense of freedom, not only the freedom of the South Vietnamese, but of the entire non - Communist world.

More than 250 attended a banquet in Davis' honor at the Pleasant Valley County Club Saturday night.

Post 10 of Weirton was host, with John A. Jones of the Weirton Steel Co. general chairman.

Believed First To Speak Normally Without Voice Box

BOSTON (AP) — A Marine wounded in a Viet Cong ambush last fall said "Hello, how are you?" And became, doctors believe, the first person to speak normally without a voice box.

Doctors at Massachusetts Eye and Ear Infirmary fashioned a tube and valve from the skin of Lance Cpl. Walter Lopata to replace a shattered larynx and restore his voice.

The second of two operations was performed Friday and Lopata, 25, greeted reporters Saturday with "Hello, how are you?" They were his first spoken words since he was wounded by Viet Cong shrapnel Oct. 11.

The two-stage operation was developed by Dr. William W. Montgomery of the infirmary who termed results of what he said was the first such attempt "a complete success."

Dr. Montgomery said general use of the procedure is "still in the future."

He said an estimated 6,000 Americans have their voice box removed each year because of cancer. He said perhaps 70 per cent of these eventually might be candidates for the new surgery.

A patient without a voice box must try to learn esophageal speech in which air is swallowed into the stomach and words are formed by "burping" into the throat, Dr. Montgomery explained.

The new surgical procedure allows the patient to breathe into the lungs and back up the throat in the normal way, giving the voice a good volume and pitch control never possible with esophageal speech.

The operation was done in two steps. First an opening was made at the top of the throat and valves formed from the patient's neck tissue.

In the second stage, a tube was made of tissue to connect the opening at the site where the larynx was removed to the top of the throat where the valves were built.

Dr. Montgomery said a critical factor in success is the valves at the top of the throat. He said it is essential that they close perfectly, otherwise fluid and food could run down into the lungs.

Work Of Women's Group Reviewed During Meeting

The background of the East Liverpool Council of United Church Women was reviewed by Mrs. William E. Dunlap Jr., president, during the meeting of the Women's Association of the Emmanuel Presbyterian Church Wednesday night in the social rooms.

She pointed out the Ohio organization observed its 40th anniversary in May 1965. The purpose of the group is to unite women of Protestant and Orthodox churches so they may do what smaller groups could not accomplish alone.

The local affiliation includes 18 churches, with 16 sending key women or representatives to the sessions. The annual dues are $5, which is used to defray postage and provide literature and materials for the three annual observances.

The first observance this year will be "World Day of Prayer" Feb. 10, with services scheduled at 2 p.m. at the Grace United Presbyterian Church and at 7:30 at the Calvary Methodist Church.

May Fellowship Day will be observed with a luncheon May 5 at the Trinity United Presbyterian Church. The last event is "World Community Day," with arrangements to be made following the annual business session in April.

The national publication, "The Church Woman," is prepared by volunteer workers. The group also participates in the clothing appeal for Church World Service. Mrs. John D. Sims, program chairman, introduced the speaker.

Mrs. John T. Hall conducted devotions on "Ready For Service."

During business conducted by Mrs. Robert Futhey, president, the group voted to purchase a communion cloth, napkins, element cover and two sets of antependium for use in the sanctuary.

Reports were heard from Mrs. Harold Cain, aid treasurer; Mrs. Robert Vocial, missionary treasurer, and Mrs. Thomas Parsons, secretary. The least coin was dedicated.

Refreshments were served by Mrs. Albert Caruso and Mrs. Richard Craft. The buffet table was covered with a white cloth, centered with yellow maline runners. The centerpiece was an arrangement of philodendrun in a milkglass container, flanked by yellow tapers in crystal holders.

Mrs. James Sanko, wife of the minister of the Riverside Presbyterian Church of Wellsville, will present a book review at the next session Feb. 8 at the church. Mrs. Howard Crossley will have devotions.

Two Services To Be Held For World Day of Prayer

Two services for World Day of Prayer Feb. 10 were arranged during the meeting of the East Liverpool Council of United Church Women Friday in the parish hall of St. Stephen's Episcopal Church.

The afternoon service will be held at 2 under the direction of Mrs. Jack Conley.

Mrs. Roy Richards will be chairman for the downtown service at 7:30 p. m. at the Calvary Methodist Church. A practice will be held at 1:30 p. m. on Feb. 3 at the church.

The theme for the event will be "Of His Kingdom There Shall Be No End." The service was written by Queen Salote of Tonga a few months before her death in late 1965.

Mrs. William E. Dunlap Jr., council president, opened the session reading a meditation on "The Lord's Prayer."

The minutes were read by Mrs. Charles Boso, secretary.

Mrs. Leland Pittenger, treasurer, submitted the financial report and announced dues of $5 are payable before the annual business session April 7 at St. Stephen's, when officers will be elected.

A discussion was held on the work of Church World Service, which the unit previously decided to undertake at each church. In particular need are baby clothes, mufflers, gloves, light clothing and bed linen.

These are to be taken to the First Methodist Church, where the next truck is scheduled to pick them up the first of June. The contributing church groups are to pay 10 cents a pound for the transportation.

How Can I?

Q.—How can I remove stains from plastic dishes?

A.—If conventional detergents and soaps fail, soak them for twenty minutes or so in a gallon of warm water to which a cup of bleach has been added. Wipe with a dishcloth, then wash in the usual manner. You may also try rubbing the stains with dry baking soda or with salt. Many other such helpful cleaning hints are included in my new household manual.

Q.—What is a good way to baste barbecued meat or fowl?

A.—A splendid basting tool is one you can make yourself. Tie a bit of clean white cloth to a long-handled fork or stick—and you have a perfect swab.

Q.—Is there any way I can prevent my bathroom mirrors from clouding up when I bathe or shower?

A.—A light coating of glycerin over the glass will usually keep your mirrors clear.

Q.—How can I clean soiled gilt picture or mirror frames?

A.—With a cloth moistened in carbon tetrachloride.

Use your freezer for storing chicken parts, then make up a good quantity of chicken stock at one time. After the stock is made it, too, should be stored in the freezer (in individual 1-cup portions) for use when needed. Wing tips, giblets and bony back parts make excellent chicken stock when coupled with seasonings.

Israel Warns Syria About 'Aggression'

JERUSALEM (AP) — Foreign Minister Abba Eban warned today that Israel cannot tolerate any more "aggressive acts" by Syria and that it has "both the will and the strength to halt the activities."

Speaking to foreign newsmen, Eban repeated an Israeli offer for an informal emergency meeting of the Syrian-Israel Mixed Armistice Commission to discuss outstanding issues, but said "shooting and bombing has first to stop to make such a meeting possible."

U.N. Secretary-General U Thant appealed Sunday to both Syria and Israel to restrain their military forces, warning that a large-scale clash could result from continuing tension along their border.

Thant's appeal, sent to the two governments Sunday, said he had received word of a big military buildup along the border from Lt. Gen. Odd Bull of Norway, chief of staff of the U.N. truce supervision organization in Palestine.

Eban said the buildup "was originally caused by Syrians establishing tanks and heavy armor in defensive areas on the Syrian side of the border and by activation of their arms against Israel.

Church At Lisbon Selects Officers

LISBON — Members of the Holy Trinity Episcopal Church elected officers Sunday during the annual parish meeting following luncheon at 1 p.m. in the undercroft.

The Rev. Thomas F. Webster was in charge of the business meeting.

Cornell P. Monda, senior warden, and Lowell Wellman, clerk, were re-elected to their second terms.

The new officers are Maurice Bell, junior warden; Mrs. Monda, treasurer; Terry Morris, Bell and Mrs. Monda, vestry members for three-year terms, and Monda, Bell and Randall Loch, delegates to the Episcopal convention Feb. 3-4 in Cleveland. Frank Adomitis and Mrs. Monda are alternates.

The guest speaker was the Rev. Arthur Sherman, rector of Christ's Church in Warren, who returned recently from Hong Kong. He showed slides and told of the worldwide mission of the church. He witnessed the consecration of Bishop Baker of Hong Kong, his brother-in-law.

How Can I?

Q.—How can I remove stains from plastic dishes?

A.—If conventional detergents and soaps fail, soak them for twenty minutes or so in a gallon of warm water to which a cup of bleach has been added. Wipe with a dishcloth, then wash in the usual manner. You may also try rubbing the stains with dry baking soda or with salt. Many other such helpful cleaning hints are included in my new household manual.

Q.—What is a good way to baste barbecued meat or fowl?

A.—A splendid basting tool is one you can make yourself. Tie a bit of clean white cloth to a long-handled fork or stick—and you have a perfect swab.

Q.—Is there any way I can prevent my bathroom mirrors from clouding up when I bathe or shower?

A.—A light coating of glycerin over the glass will usually keep your mirrors clear.

Q.—How can I clean soiled gilt picture or mirror frames?

A.—With a cloth moistened in carbon tetrachloride.

Use your freezer for storing chicken parts, then make up a good quantity of chicken stock at one time. After the stock is made it, too, should be stored in the freezer (in individual 1-cup portions) for use when needed. Wing tips, giblets and bony back parts make excellent chicken stock when coupled with seasonings.

Rockefellers And Eaton Eye Better West-Red Bloc Trade

NEW YORK (AP) — The Rockefeller brothers and Cyrus S. Eaton Jr., representing two of the nation's richest families, plan to build a better trade bridge between the Western Hemisphere and Communist countries in Eastern Europe.

The financial alliance, linking Wall Street and the Midwest, was disclosed Sunday and confirmed by Richard S. Aldrich of the Rockefeller interests.

It will involve cooperation between the International Basic Economy Corp., controlled by the Rockefeller brothers, and Tower International, Inc., headed by Eaton, a Cleveland industrialist.

Aldrich, a vice president and director of IBEC, said his organization's objective "is to improve the standard of living of the peoples of the world.

"An initiative that creates a commercial and industrial dialogue between the East and the West cannot help but contribute to this objective," he said.

The trade exchange plan — encompassing the United States, Canada and Latin America — brings together the enormous investment skills of the Rockefellers and the almost unique relationship the Eatons have with the Soviet bloc.

Cyrus S. Eaton Sr., long an advocate of closer ties between the United States and the Soviet Union, has cultivated some support behind the iron curtain by his trips to Moscow. He has entertained Soviet leaders, including former Premier Nikita S. Khrushchev.

In today's New York Times, a two-page Soviet advertisement stresses that ideological differences are no barrier to trade, and assures American businessmen that Soviet foreign trade organizations "are also ready to strike up relations with you."

The two-page spread, headed "Foreign Trade—Two-Way Traffic," further states that "The U.S.S.R. favors mutually beneficial trade relations with the countries and this is not a mere political assertion." The advertisement was placed by Amtorg Trading Corp., which handles most trade between the United States and the Soviet Union.

The IBEC, organized in 1947 by Nelson A. Rockefeller, now New York's governor, specializes in investments in underdeveloped nations. It has interests in 29 nations, but none in the Communist bloc.

Tower International has specialized in promoting and arranging the financing of projects in Eastern Europe.

Doctors' Objections Seen As Few Now To Medicare

WASHINGTON (AP) — The president of the American Medical Association says that after 6½ months of medicare the nation's doctors are voicing few objections—publicly or privately—to the federal health program for the elderly.

"In the beginning, there were some rebellious ones who spoke as if they wouldn't cooperate with medicare, said Dr. Charles L. Hudson.

But now, he said, "I just don't hear the number of remarks. There are not so many who say they won't participate" in portions of the program.

Have doctors found that medicare is not the bureaucratic monster they feared?

Dr. Hudson, interviewed during his appearance at a medical conference, smiled and paused for a moment.

What doctors were fighting against, he said, was an intangible thing. "It was, he said, "whether you were going to lose your professional freedom. You have to let it run a while to see how obnoxious it is.

"The unknown is always worse than the fact."

Yet, Dr. Hudson emphasized, the medical profession is far from happy with medicare.

For one thing, he said, many doctors "are really hot under the collar" about a certification form they must sign saying a patient they want put in the hospital actually needs hospitalization.

"They think this is demanding," Dr. Hudson said. Doctors know hospital beds are scarce, he said, and when they say a patient needs a bed, it should be assumed that he does. He said the AMA plans to seek elimination of the provision by an amendment of the law.

Dr. Hudson, a silver-haired, gentle-mannered staff physician of the Cleveland (Ohio) Clinic, said also that American doctors fear medicare will be expanded.

"There are apprehensions about the long run," he said.

"We would abhor a national health plan" under which the federal government would pay for all health care and doctors would receive salaries or would be paid on a per-patient basis, he said.

Arsonist Is Blamed For Fire In Library

CLEVELAND (AP) — Fire started by an arsonist destroyed more than 1,000 of the Olmsted Falls High School library's 8,000 volumes Sunday, officials said.

Gordon V. Boddy, principal, estimated damage to the books and library at $15,000.

"This is a definite case of arson," said Fire Chief Robert Fenderbosch. "There was a heavy smell of gasoline or kerosene when we got there."

Police said a window in the school cafeteria was forced open and the lock on the library door was broken.

Man Given Jail Sentence In Drunk Driving Case

A 31-year-old East Liverpool man was sentenced to five days in jail and fined $250 and costs when he pleaded guilty today before Municipal Judge Samuel M. Chertoff on a charge of driving while under the influence of alcohol.

Donald L. Black of Post Office Box 445 also was given a 90-day suspension of his driver's license and ordered to pay the court costs on a second charge of operating a motor vehicle without headlights.

Black was cited at 4:30 a. m. Saturday on Broadway by Lt. Paul A. Burson Jr. and Patrolman L. E. Richard. Burson testified the officers halted Black initially because he was driving with only his parking lights illuminated.

MEANWHILE, the judge gave a 10-day jail term to Howard Hall of 928 Valley Ave., who pleaded guilty to a charge of operating an auto without a driver's license. Hall was arrested at 2:20 this morning on the Pennsylvania Ave. "Hill Rd." by Patrolman Jack Strobel, officers said. Queried by the court, Hall said he had been driving "about a year" but never held an operator's permit.

The court decreed a suspended 10-day jail term for George A. Rockwell of Youngstown, also charged with driving without a license, when it was revealed the defendant was cited while driving to Brownsville, Pa., to attend his mother's funeral. Rockwell also was fined $10 and costs on a charge of crashing a stop sign at the junction of Routes 7 and 30. He was arrested by the patrol Sunday at 8:15 a. m.

Three more motorists were fined today and three others forfeited appearance bonds.

Robert G. Wills of Newberry, Ohio, was fined $10 and costs on a patrol charge of failure to yield half the roadway to oncoming traffic while driving on Route 30 near Cannons Mills. He was cited Jan. 9 at 3:50 a.m.

George A. Fetty, 26, of 929 Claiborne St. was fined $10 and costs on a charge of driving west on a section of 6th St. reserved for eastbound traffic. He was cited at 3:30 a. m. Saturday on the Diamond by Patrolman Howard Frontz.

Theressa L. Schoolcraft of Annesley Rd. was fined $10 and costs on a charge of failure to yield the right-os-way at the junction of Route 170 and County Rd. 428 in Calcutta. She was cited by the patrol after a traffic mishap last Tuesday afternoon. She pleaded "no contest."

David W. Mayers, Jr., 19, of Park Blvd. was fined $10 and costs on a charge of speeding 60 miles an hour in a 50-mile zone on Route 7. He was cited by the patrol Sunday at 8:45 p.m.

Bonds of $17.50 each were forfeited by Homer W. Asberry of Canton, John W. Fryer of Enon Valley, Pa., and Nicholas Bradler of Bedford, all cited by the patrol on charges of speeding on Route 7.

Knife Hurts Area Woman

A Wellsville woman cut by knife and a Salineville child scalded by coffee were admitted Sunday to City Hospital, where seven other area residents were treated.

Mrs. Rosemary Volino of 1360 Russell Heights, Wellsville, was in "fair" condition today with a laceration of the thumb of the left hand cut on an electric carving knife.

James J. Barber, son of Mr. and Mrs. Everett Barber of Salineville, was in "fair" condition with first, second and third-degree scalds of the right side of the body suffered when he pulled a pot of coffee on himself.

Beatrice House of 1215 Oakwood Ave. sustained a fracture of the left wrist in a fall in a hole.

Scott McCarty of New Cumberland received an injury to the second finger of the left hand in a go-cart.

Rosemary Kasunich, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Stephen Kasunich of 1424 Pennsylvania Ave., received an injury to the left elbow in a fall at home.

Donald Lyle, son of Mr. and Mrs. Donald D. Lyle of Calcutta, sustained a laceration of the forehead while playing basketball at Beaver Local High School.

Allen Cornell of 93½ Grant St., Newell, sustained a laceration of the little finger of the right hand when it was caught in a closed door of a truck.

Alan Wills of 1525 Franklin Dr., Wellsville, owner and manager of Almago Enterprises of Wellsville, received a piece of steel in his right eye while at work.

Kimberly Ann Kreider, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Richard Kreider of 228 Washington St., Newell, sustained a laceration of the chin while skating.

A bird's maternal behavior derives from physiological changes occurring in a female bird during the nesting season. Capillaries in the mother bird's breast become engorged with blood. To cool her breast, the bird puts it next to the relatively cool egg. When the egg becomes warm, hence less soothing, the bird turns it over or moves to another egg.

Senate Eyes Antifilibuster 'Showdown'

WASHINGTON (AP)—Senate leaders hope for a showdown this week in the battle over the Senate's antifilibuster rule.

A bipartisan group of senators, renewing efforts that have marked the start of every new Congress since 1953, is bent on making it easier to cut off paralyzing debates.

In the House, Democratic members caucus Tuesday to fill a vacancy on the powerful Ways and Means Committee. Reps. Jacob H. Gilbert of New York and Omar Burleson of Texas are seeking the seat in what is billed as a liberal-vs.-conservative contest.

Once the Democratic members of the Ways and Means Committee are named, they will draw up committee assignments of other Democrats. House Republicans also are expected to make their committee assignments this week.

Senate committees were completed last week.

The Foreign Relations Committee starts today on a wide-ranging review of the world situation with Secretary of State Dean Rusk as the witness in a closed session.

In the scrap over the Senate's cloture, or debate-closing, rule, two alternatives have been offered. The present rule requires two-thirds approval of senators voting for there to be any forced halt to a filibuster.

One proposal would permit a three-fifths majority of senators voting to end debate. The other, given virtually no chance of adoption, provides that a majority of the Senate membership could cut off a debate after 20 legislative days.

The Senate picks up where it left off last week—debating a motion to consider the three-fifths proposal.

Foes of any change, led by Sens. Everett M. Dirksen, R-Ill., and Richard B. Russell, D-Ga., contend that it will take a two-thirds majority to stop them from talking.

Man Given Jail Sentence In Drunk Driving Case

A 31-year-old East Liverpool man was sentenced to five days in jail and fined $250 and costs when he pleaded guilty today before Municipal Judge Samuel M. Chertoff on a charge of driving while under the influence of alcohol.

Donald L. Black of Post Office Box 445 also was given a 90-day suspension of his driver's license and ordered to pay the court costs on a second charge of operating a motor vehicle without headlights.

Black was cited at 4:30 a. m. Saturday on Broadway by Lt. Paul A. Burson Jr. and Patrolman L. E. Richard. Burson testified the officers halted Black initially because he was driving with only his parking lights illuminated.

MEANWHILE, the judge gave a 10-day jail term to Howard Hall of 928 Valley Ave., who pleaded guilty to a charge of operating an auto without a driver's license. Hall was arrested at 2:20 this morning on the Pennsylvania Ave. "Hill Rd." by Patrolman Jack Strobel, officers said. Queried by the court, Hall said he had been driving "about a year" but never held an operator's permit.

The court decreed a suspended 10-day jail term for George A. Rockwell of Youngstown, also charged with driving without a license, when it was revealed the defendant was cited while driving to Brownsville, Pa., to attend his mother's funeral. Rockwell also was fined $10 and costs on a charge of crashing a stop sign at the junction of Routes 7 and 30. He was arrested by the patrol Sunday at 8:15 a. m.

Three more motorists were fined today and three others forfeited appearance bonds.

Robert G. Wills of Newberry, Ohio, was fined $10 and costs on a patrol charge of failure to yield half the roadway to oncoming traffic while driving on Route 30 near Cannons Mills. He was cited Jan. 9 at 3:50 a.m.

George A. Fetty, 26, of 929 Claiborne St. was fined $10 and costs on a charge of driving west on a section of 6th St. reserved for eastbound traffic. He was cited at 3:30 a. m. Saturday on the Diamond by Patrolman Howard Frontz.

Theressa L. Schoolcraft of Annesley Rd. was fined $10 and costs on a charge of failure to yield the right-of-way at the junction of Route 170 and County Rd. 428 in Calcutta. She was cited by the patrol after a traffic mishap last Tuesday afternoon. She pleaded "no contest."

David W. Mayers, Jr., 19, of Park Blvd. was fined $10 and costs on a charge of speeding 60 miles an hour in a 50-mile zone on Route 7. He was cited by the patrol Sunday at 8:45 p.m.

Bonds of $17.50 each were forfeited by Homer W. Asberry of Canton, John W. Fryer of Enon Valley, Pa., and Nicholas Bradler of Bedford, all cited by the patrol on charges of speeding on Route 7.

Knife Hurts Area Woman

A Wellsville woman cut by knife and a Salineville child scalded by coffee were admitted Sunday to City Hospital, where seven other area residents were treated.

Mrs. Rosemary Volino of 1360 Russell Heights, Wellsville, was in "fair" condition today with a laceration of the thumb of the left hand cut on an electric carving knife.

James J. Barber, son of Mr. and Mrs. Everett Barber of Salineville, was in "fair" condition with first, second and third-degree scalds of the right side of the body suffered when he pulled a pot of coffee on himself.

Beatrice House of 1215 Oakwood Ave. sustained a fracture of the left wrist in a fall in a hole.

Scott McCarty of New Cumberland received an injury to the second finger of the left hand in a go-cart.

Rosemary Kasunich, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Stephen Kasunich of 1424 Pennsylvania Ave., received an injury to the left elbow in a fall at home.

Donald Lyle, son of Mr. and Mrs. Donald D. Lyle of Calcutta, sustained a laceration of the forehead while playing basketball at Beaver Local High School.

Allen Cornell of 93½ Grant St., Newell, sustained a laceration of the little finger of the right hand when it was caught in a closed door of a truck.

Alan Wills of 1525 Franklin Dr., Wellsville, owner and manager of Almago Enterprises of Wellsville, received a piece of steel in his right eye while at work.

Kimberly Ann Kreider, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Richard Kreider of 228 Washington St., Newell, sustained a laceration of the chin while skating.

A bird's maternal behavior derives from physiological changes occurring in a female bird during the nesting season. Capillaries in the mother bird's breast become engorged with blood. To cool her breast, the bird puts it next to the relatively cool egg. When the egg becomes warm, hence less soothing, the bird turns it over or moves to another egg.

Senate Eyes Antifilibuster 'Showdown'

WASHINGTON (AP)—Senate leaders hope for a showdown this week in the battle over the Senate's antifilibuster rule.

A bipartisan group of senators, renewing efforts that have marked the start of every new Congress since 1953, is bent on making it easier to cut off paralyzing debates.

In the House, Democratic members caucus Tuesday to fill a vacancy on the powerful Ways and Means Committee. Reps. Jacob H. Gilbert of New York and Omar Burleson of Texas are seeking the seat in what is billed as a liberal-vs.-conservative contest.

Once the Democratic members of the Ways and Means Committee are named, they will draw up committee assignments of other Democrats. House Republicans also are expected to make their committee assignments this week.

Senate committees were completed last week.

The Foreign Relations Committee starts today on a wide-ranging review of the world situation with Secretary of State Dean Rusk as the witness in a closed session.

In the scrap over the Senate's cloture, or debate-closing, rule, two alternatives have been offered. The present rule requires two-thirds approval of senators voting for there to be any forced halt to a filibuster.

One proposal would permit a three-fifths majority of senators voting to end debate. The other, given virtually no chance of adoption, provides that a majority of the Senate membership could cut off a debate after 20 legislative days.

The Senate picks up where it left off last week debating a motion to consider the three-fifths proposal.

Foes of any change, led by Sens. Everett M. Dirksen, R-Ill., and Richard B. Russell, D-Ga., contend that it will take a two-thirds majority to stop them from talking.

James Miller of Salineville, Juvenile probation officer, also cited the boy for violating terms of probation granted Nov. 23 in a stolen car case. Judge Tobin at that time placed the boy on a 9 p. m. curfew and suspended his driver's license for a year.

Accord Ends Philadelphia Transit Tieup

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Negotiators for the Philadelphia Transportation Co. and the Transport Workers Union reached a tentative agreement today on a new contract for some 5,000 TWU workers, thus ending a 27½-hour-old transit strike.

The agreement, which gives workers a 51-cent-an-hour wage increase over the term of the two-year contract, was completed during a four-hour session also attended by city officials.

Albert Lyons, president of the transportation company, said at a news conference following the announcement that the company will ask the Pennsylvania Public Utilities Commission for a fare adjustment at the commission's meeting today in Harrisburg to underwrite the new contract.

Lyons would not speculate on the nature of any fare increase over the present 25-cent rate, saying that it would be up to the commission.

The agreement came a little more than 24 hours after the TWU had rejected a company offer of a 12-cent-an-hour wage hike the first year and two annual raises of 12 cents over the term of a three-year contract. The TWU workers currently earn $2.96 an hour.

Lyons said the agreement will be submitted to the PTC's board of directors for approval.

Matthew Guinan, TWU international president, who took part in the negotiations, said the pact will be presented to TWU workers for ratification sometime within the next week.

The pact gives workers a 15-cent-an-hour raise effective immediately, another 15-cent hike in January, 1968, and a 12-cent-an-hour raise in July, 1968. The remaining 9 cents will be realized in fringe-benefit improvements.

Ruling Requested On Wright Salary In Beaver Office

BEAVER — A court ruling has been asked by James Tress, Beaver County controller, concerning the salary of Russell Wright, named county commissioner Saturday to fill the unexpired term of the late Arthur Pettibon.

Under the provision of an act of the Pennsylvania legislature, a salary increase to $12,000 was allotted county officials beginning terms after Jan. 1, 1967.

The new salary would be $12,000, compared with the present salary.

Under one interpretation, Wright could receive the salary boost. However, Tress contends the term Wright is filling is not a new term, but part of an unexpired term, and has asked the county judges to decide the issue.

Flaked almonds look pretty when they top a frosted cake or other dessert. To flake, blanch almonds and use a swivel-blade vegetable peeler run over the wide side of each nut to make "flakes." This is a time - consuming process but fortunately not many of the thinly cut nuts are needed for the garnish!

Boy Given Detention On Traffic Charges

LISBON — David Thrasher, 16, of Maple Hill Rd., Salineville, was ordered to spend four months in the County Jail detention room this morning by Judge Louis Tobin of Juvenile Court.

The court also suspended the boy's driver's license until his 18th birthday, May 17, 1968.

Thrasher admitted changing places with the driver of a car going 80 miles an hour early Saturday on the East Liverpool-Wellsville Rd. The State Highway Patrol cited him to Juvenile Court on a charge of reckless operation.

James Miller of Salineville, Juvenile probation officer, also cited the boy for violating terms of probation granted Nov. 23 in a stolen car case. Judge Tobin at that time placed the boy on a 9 p. m. curfew and suspended his driver's license for a year.

72 Probation Cases Listed

LISBON — Columbiana County has 72 adults on probation for criminal offenses, Probation Officer Richard Rose reported today in his 1966 summary for Common Pleas Court.

He said he is supervising 34 cases in the county, 23 outside the county but in Ohio and seven outside the state.

Eight probation cases have been transferred to other probation departments for supervision. The whereabouts of two active cases is unknown.

Rose said 12 cases were terminated last year. Five persons were cited for violating terms of probation. The court terminated probation in four cases and sentenced the offenders.

Rose completed 25 investigations for probation last year and has seven currently under investigation. Thirteen cases are pending probation hearings and two persons are awaiting hearings for probation violation.

The courts granted probation in 12 new cases last year.

Rose said 49 probationers have paid court costs in full. The total of court costs collected in 1966 was $2,859. Probationers also paid $6,121 as restitution for losses caused.

Rose said $2,830 is still collectible and owing from current probation cases.

Fall Victim 'Critical'

EAST PALESTINE — Mrs. Willis (Ruth) Lawrence of McClure Ave. remained in "critical" condition today at Salem City Hospital with severe head injuries suffered in a fall down cellar steps at home Sunday morning. She underwent emergency surgery yesterday.

Accord Ends Philadelphia Transit Tieup

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Negotiators for the Philadelphia Transportation Co. and the Transport Workers Union reached a tentative agreement today on a new contract for some 5,000 TWU workers, thus ending a 27½-hour-old transit strike.

The agreement, which gives workers a 51-cent-an-hour wage increase over the term of the two-year contract, was completed during a four-hour session also attended by city officials.

Albert Lyons, president of the transportation company, said at a news conference following the announcement that the company will ask the Pennsylvania Public Utilities Commission for a fare adjustment at the commission's meeting today in Harrisburg to underwrite the new contract.

Lyons would not speculate on the nature of any fare increase over the present 25-cent rate, saying that it would be up to the commission.

The agreement came a little more than 24 hours after the TWU had rejected a company offer of a 12-cent-an-hour wage hike the first year and two annual raises of 12 cents over the term of a three-year contract. The TWU workers currently earn $2.96 an hour.

Lyons said the agreement will be submitted to the PTC's board of directors for approval.

Matthew Guinan, TWU international president, who took part in the negotiations, said the pact will be presented to TWU workers for ratification sometime within the next week.

The pact gives workers a 15-cent-an-hour raise effective immediately, another 15-cent hike in January, 1968, and a 12-cent-an-hour raise in July, 1968. The remaining 9 cents will be realized in fringe-benefit improvements.

Ruling Requested On Wright Salary In Beaver Office

BEAVER — A court ruling has been asked by James Tress, Beaver County controller, concerning the salary of Russell Wright, named county commissioner Saturday to fill the unexpired term of the late Arthur Pettibon.

Under the provision of an act of the Pennsylvania legislature, a salary increase to $12,000 was allotted county officials beginning terms after Jan. 1, 1967.

The new salary would be $12,000, compared with the present salary.

Under one interpretation, Wright could receive the salary boost. However, Tress contends the term Wright is filling is not a new term, but part of an unexpired term, and has asked the county judges to decide the issue.

No Snow, No Contest

BEAVER — Lack of snow brought postponement of Sunday's scheduled world snow shovel riding contest at Economy Park near Baden. Len Szafaryn, Beaver County tourist promotion agency director, announced. The event will be held when the weather is appropriate, he said.

Loss Placed At $300 In Wellsville Blaze

An estimated $300 damage resulted Sunday night to the home of Benjamin Cannadate of 1816 Riverside Ave., Wellsville, when wiring apparently short - circuited, Wellsville Fire Chief Robert Lewis said today.

The building suffered approximately $200 damage to a rear wall and $100 damage to the contents. Lewis said the property was insured.

Electric service was cut off to the home as firefighters severed the shorted wiring during the 9:57 p. m. blaze. No one was injured.

Flaked almonds look pretty when they top a frosted cake or other dessert. To flake, blanch almonds and use a swivel-blade vegetable peeler run over the wide side of each nut to make "flakes." This is a time - consuming process but fortunately not many of the thinly cut nuts are needed for the garnish!

Bob Hope Escalates

As a result of our escalating the Vietnam war, Bob Hope had to escalate his recent Christmas tour to the troops, which he presents as a 90-minute special Wednesday night on NBC Channel 7 at 9).

Hal Humphrey

'Everything was bigger this trip. The audience looked four times larger at each stop. We played to 20,000 soldiers at Cam Ranh Bay and 16,000 Marines at Da Nang. Seventeen shows and seven hospitals in 12 days, and I'm in trouble if I don't get a piece of all those places into the TV show," Hope reports.

-:-

HE'S A LITTLE irritated with NBC for not letting him expand the show this year to two hours. The network is pre-empting "I Spy" to allow for Hope's extra 30 minutes, he points out, so may as well have given up the entire second hour.

"My sponsor was ready to go for it, but NBC reserved the last half hour for this new comic, Dom De Luise, in some kind of variety show it wants to sell for a series next fall. They put Roger Miller in the same spot last year and naturally he got a big rating there," says Hope who also might have mentioned that it did Miller little good.

The Miller series, which started last September, was replaced last Monday by a new situation comedy.

-:-

HOPE WORRIES about covering all of the Vietnam bases in his show because he knows the servicemen in each locale write home to tell the folks he was there. Then they tune in to see what things look like where their boy is.

"I think this helps the morale at home, where they can tune in and see these guys really enjoying themselves," Hope adds.

To insure that all of the locales visited are included in the final edited film (144,000 feet cut to 8,000 feet for TV), Hope has made the noblest sacrifice any performer could make — trimming his own monologue, in some instances to less than a minute, to allow for more "local color."

-:-

"WE NEVER have enough time to do some of the things I'd like to do. If we could just get a shot of those kids coming over the hill into one of the areas where we put on the show. But by the time we get there, they've maybe been there four hours waiting for us," says the frustrated Hope.

The "we" this time comprised a cast and crew of 70 people, including Phyllis Diller, Vic Damone, Retta Faris (Miss World), Joey Heatherton, Diane Shelton, Anita Bryant, the Korean Kittens and two extra Hopes — wife Dolores and daughter Nora, now an NCC secretary.

"People always are asking me what my wife thinks about my going on these tours at Christmastime. Well, now they can ask her. I introduced her from the audience at one of our shows in Thailand, and she came on stage and sang 'White Christmas.' Then Nora came on and started a Watusi, and I chased her off. They both got a big scream," Hope reports, proudly.

ALONG THE WAY, Hope and his troupe came across Evangelist Billy Graham, novelist John Steinbeck and Cardinal Spellman, each of whom will be on the TV show for short conversational bits with Hope.

"I reminisce with Steinbeck about the time he came across Frances Langford and me entertaining wounded soldiers in an Army hospital in England. He wrote a whole story about it, and I think it was reprinted in Reader's Digest again just a couple of years ago," Hope recalls.

The veteran comic and troop ambassador sides with the "hawks" when it comes to what our strategy should be in Vietnam and is probably as emotionally involved in opposing the "holding war" philosophy as most of our officers over there.

"Everybody I talked to there wants to know why they can't go in and finish it, and don't let anybody kid you about why we're there. If we weren't, those Commies would have the whole thing, and it wouldn't be long until we'd be looking at them off the coast of Santa Monica," states Hope in a rare display of his more serious side.

Eating To Slim Down Gets Easier

Do you remember in the ever-charming story of "Alice In Wonderland" when Alice, after racing madly with the queen, dropped down in exhaustion and saw to her bewilderment that they'd scarcely budged an inch? And the queen, amazed at Alice's ignorance, exclaimed, "But of course, you have to run fast to stay where you are!"

Ida Jean Kain

On this Monday morning, those of you who have barely made a start on what may seem like a long road to desirable weight, may feel somewhat like Alice. But here is a promise: No matter how many excess pounds stand between you and your right weight, you can triumph. And you won't have to run fast to stay where you are. Continue to follow the scientific pattern and you will acquire a built-in slimming system.

-:-

WHEN YOU curb your appetite, nature cooperates and soon you feel content on slimming fare. What happens is that you retrain your appestate. When you become accustomed to eating a little less then you won't want to go back to overeating. Actually it isn't pleasant to eat until surfeited, for then you feel dull, heavy and uncomfortable.

On the scientific eating pattern you re-educate your food habits. Psychologists claim that knowing you are on the right track is three-fourths of success. Read this encouraging letter from a homemaker in her late forties:

"I had been fat all of my adult life and only in the past two years have I been able to get my weight under control. I have reduced 40 pounds and three things put it over:

"1 — Eating a good breakfast. 2 — Eating regular food, but less of it. I cut out all second helpings. Instead of a specific diet, I followed a meal pattern that automatically curbed the calories. 3 — I read that the subconscious mind is stronger than the conscious mind and that when we really want to be the right weight more than we want to continue to overeat, success is sure. I feel wonderful and now I keep slim by habit," she concluded.

-:-

THE BEST possible weight control system is to build your meals around the protective foods — vegetables, fruits, lean meat, fish or poultry, skim milk, eggs, whole grain cereal and a limited amount of bread and butter or margarine. You get the experience of curbing calories through an everyday pattern of eating. By this plan you acquire a built in slimming system. Then you stay slim by habit.

Send stamped, self-addressed, long envelope for Ida Jean Kain's new Calorie Chart. Address your request to Ida Jean Kain in care of The Review.

North Dakota Hit By Winds, Snow, Rain And Sleet

By The Associated Press

Howling winds swept snow, rain and sleet into North Dakota early today. The State Highway Department said all roads in the state were extremely dangerous.

The storm moved southeastward and dumped snow into Minnesota, northern Iowa and Nebraska. Near blizzard conditions were expected in Montana.

Four inches of new snow fell at Minot, N.D., during the night. Other parts of the state and the border areas of South Dakota received up to two inches.

An icy air mass followed the storm from Canada into northern and eastern Montana.

Driving throughout the area was described as extremely hazardous. In some sections freezing rain preceded the drifting snow.

The high winds—measured up to 85 miles an hour at Livingston, Mont.—damaged property and knocked down power lines in the central and western sections of the state.

Gannets, high-flying sea birds, sometimes plunge 50 feet below the water's surface to catch fish.

Keep In Trim

By IDA JEAN KAIN

Eating To Slim Down Gets Easier

Do you remember in the ever-charming story of "Alice In Wonderland" when Alice, after racing madly with the queen, dropped down in exhaustion and saw to her bewilderment that they'd scarcely budged an inch? And the queen, amazed at Alice's ignorance, exclaimed, "But of course, you have to run fast to stay where you are!"

Ida Jean Kain

On this Monday morning, those of you who have barely made a start on what may seem like a long road to desirable weight, may feel somewhat like Alice. But here is a promise: No matter how many excess pounds stand between you and your right weight, you can triumph. And you won't have to run fast to stay where you are. Continue to follow the scientific pattern and you will acquire a built-in slimming system.

—:—

WHEN YOU curb your appetite, nature cooperates and soon you feel content on slimming fare. What happens is that you retrain your appestate. When you become accustomed to eating a little less then you won't want to go back to overeating. Actually it isn't pleasant to eat until surfeited, for then you feel dull, heavy and uncomfortable.

On the scientific eating pattern you re-educate your food habits. Psychologists claim that knowing you are on the right track is three-fourths of success. Read this encouraging letter from a homemaker in her late forties:

"I had been fat all of my adult life and only in the past two years have I been able to get my weight under control. I have reduced 40 pounds and three things put it over:

"1 — Eating a good breakfast. 2 — Eating regular food, but less of it. I cut out all second helpings. Instead of a specific diet, I followed a meal pattern that automatically curbed the calories. 3 — I read that the subconscious mind is stronger than the conscious mind and that when we really want to be the right weight more than we want to continue to overeat, success is sure. I feel wonderful and now I keep slim by habit," she concluded.

—:—

THE BEST possible weight control system is to build your meals around the protective foods — vegetables, fruits, lean meat, fish or poultry, skim milk, eggs, whole grain cereal and a limited amount of bread and butter or margarine. You get the experience of curbing calories through an everyday pattern of eating. By this plan you acquire a built in slimming system. Then you stay slim by habit.

CELINA, Ohio (AP)—William Dean Rice, 54, of Ohio City, who would have been in a coma two years Jan. 21, died Sunday in Lima Memorial Hospital.

Rice failed to regain consciousness after his car and a Celina school bus collided as he was returning home from work at the New Idea Division of Aico Corp. at Coldwater in 1965. Two other persons in the car were hurt.

Rice's family recently filed suit for $200,000 damages against the Celina Board of Education and the bus driver.

He leaves a widow and nine children.

CINCINNATI (AP) — Roger Harris, 19, was fatally wounded Sunday night and police said he was shot while playing Russian Roulette with a 32 caliber revolver.

North Dakota Hit By Winds, Snow, Rain And Sleet

By The Associated Press

Howling winds swept snow, rain and sleet into North Dakota early today. The State Highway Department said all roads in the state were extremely dangerous.

The storm moved southeastward and dumped snow into Minnesota, northern Iowa and Nebraska. Near blizzard conditions were expected in Montana.

Four inches of new snow fell at Minot, N.D., during the night. Other parts of the state and the border areas of South Dakota received up to two inches.

An icy air mass followed the storm from Canada into northern and eastern Montana.

Driving throughout the area was described as extremely hazardous. In some sections freezing rain preceded the drifting snow.

The high winds—measured up to 85 miles an hour at Livingston, Mont.—damaged property and knocked down power lines in the central and western sections of the state.

Obstacles Stand In Path Of Bill

Standard Time Faces Rough Going

By WILLIAM V. MERRIMAN
Review Staff Correspondent

COLUMBUS, Ohio — A ripple of laughter filtered through Ohio Senate chambers recently when Majority Leader Theodore M. Gray, R-Piqua, sent an Eastern Standard Time bill to the Agriculture and State Agencies Committee.

Chairman of the committee is none other than the cosponsor of the bill to put the entire state on standard time—Sen. Tennyson Guyer, R-Finlay.

Chuckles were prompted by the obvious intent of the committee assignment. If the legislature fails before April 1 to enact an Eastern Standard Time law, Ohio under a federal law passed last year automatically will be completely on daylight saving time.

So standard time proponents are anxious to see the bill through committee and onto the floor for a vote as soon as possible.

But referral to the Agriculture and State Agencies Committee could prove futile strategy.

Though the chairman favors slow time, a question mark hangs over the sentiments of the committee's seven other members.

4 From 'Fast' Zone

Four senators, including Sen. Ralph S. Regula, R-Stark, represent northeastern Ohio districts whose residents are accustomed to summers with daylight saving time.

Four others are from areas on standard time.

A 4-4 standoff, of course, would kill the standard time bill before it reaches the floor.

And even if the bill should be voted upon the floor, likelihood of passage appears remote.

A regular bill requires only a simple majority of the 33 senators for passage. But through normal legislative channels, a law cannot take effect for 90 days.

Thus to beat the April 1 deadline, an emergency rider was attached to the standard time bill to permit the measure to take effect immediately upon signature by Gov. James A. Rhodes.

The catch is that an emergency bill requires two-thirds approval, or 22 senators and 66 representatives.

Unofficial surveys in the past few months suggest not even half of the new legislature supports slow time—and a two-thirds favorable vote appears out of the question. A second possibility is removal of the emergency clause, leaving a regular bill needing only one more than 50 per cent of the votes in both houses for passage.

Would Eliminate '67

This approach would eliminate the chance for statewide standard time for Ohio in 1967—because fewer than 90 days remain until the April 1 deadline—but passage would insure it thereafter.

If all moves fail, Ohioans all will be on daylight saving time from April 30 to Oct. 29.

Shower of Bills?

Bills could be falling into the House hopper like snowflakes after House rules are adopted tonight.

Several representatives have both fists filled with bills ready for submission. And 50 already had been filed in the clerk's office by the close of last week's session.

Drawing much attention was freshman representative Ronald M. Mottl, D-Cuyahoga, rumored to have 56 bills set for introduction.

Statehouse speculation on his motives range from a serious plan to attack urban problems to a dramatic, attention-drawing flurry designed to push Rep. Mottl's possible candidacy for mayor of Parma.

More than one veteran legislator insists that if the attempt is in earnest, it is at the least misguided.

When the session warms to its task and those 56 bills start cropping up in committees, observers see Rep. Mottl's efforts becoming so diluted he neither will be able to meet his own committee obligations nor find time to guide his bills effectively.

Already several House veterans are distressed by the possibility bills they've pushed and refined in past sessions will be enacted with the name Mottl on them.

Beating GOP to Punch?

There could be another motive in dropping a multibill bomb. Aware of their minority status—62-37 in the House, 23-10 in the Senate—Democrats could be beating Republican colleagues to the punch with bills having above-average chances of passage.

This could explain the move of Sen. Charles J. Carney, D-Youngstown, who flipped nine pieces of legislation into the Senate hopper.

Aware Democratic voices could be muffled by the Republican majority, Sen. Carney might be applying the experience of his 16 years in the upper chamber to political advantage.

Reapportionment

Reapportionment of the legislature, seldom mentioned in the 107th General Assembly's first two weeks, could draw the third-week spotlight.

A 10th District Court of Appeals decision invalidating the state's new apportionment plan currently is on appeal in the Ohio Supreme Court by Atty. Gen. William B. Saxbe.

The new system, under which the 107th Assembly was elected, was drawn by Saxbe and the Apportionment Board, made up of Gov. Rhodes, Secretary of State Ted W. Brown and State Auditor Roger Cloud, under orders from a special three-man federal court.

The federal court had held that the apportionment plan did not violate the U.S. Constitution and complied with the U.S. Supreme Court "one man, one vote" edict.

In ruling on a suit filed by Sen. Frank W. King, D-Toledo, Senate minority leader and head of the Ohio AFL-CIO, the 10th District court held that the Apportionment Board lacked authority to draw up new districts more than once each decade following a federal census.

The last census was in 1960.

A permanent reapportionment plan proposed by the Citizens League of Greater Cleveland is expected to be introduced in the House shortly.

It provides:

Until the 1972 election, the current legislature—33 senators, 99 representatives—would be retained. But beginning in 1972 the General Assembly would be increased to 117 in the House, 39 in the Senate.

Each Senate district would be comprised of three House districts and members of both houses would be elected from single-member districts.

The plan would be established by an Apportionment Board comprised of seven people: The governor, auditor and secretary of state, two members of the General Assembly (one from each political party) to be designated by legislative leaders, and two additional members who are neither elected nor appointed public officials (one chosen by each of the parties' other members on the board).

Mrs. Wallace Takes Oath As Alabama's Governor

MONTGOMERY, Ala. (AP) — Lurleen Wallace takes her husband's place as governor of Alabama today in a change of command which may send him back to the campaign trail as a candidate for president.

With outgoing Gov. George C. Wallace at her side, the blonde, housewife takes the oath in midafternoon as the first woman governor in Alabama's history and third in the nation.

Wallace, stepping down from his $25,000-a-year job to become his wife's "No. 1 adviser" at $1 a year, will retain a voice in the state government. They promised the voters in the election campaign last year that Wallace would continue to help make the decisions.

In the months to come, he is almost certain to take an increasingly active part in national political affairs as an avowed champion of state's rights. Before the year ends, he is expected to announce that he will run for president again in 1968 as he did three years ago.

The outgoing governor has said repeatedly that he just might be a candidate unless one of the major parties gives the South "someone we can vote for" — a state's righter like himself. Then, one by one, he has ruled out as unacceptable every potential candiate.

The trim, sun-tanned mother of four children, won the Democratic nomination without a runoff against nine male opponents and then, in the general election last November, she got almost 64 per cent of the votes in a race against a Republican challenger and an independent.

A "prayer breakfast" precedes an inaugural parade five hours long and including Negro marching bands for the first time since 1955. No Negroes were allowed in the parade when Wallace was sworn in as governor four years ago or when former Gov. John Patterson took office in 1959.

Mrs. Wallace, 41, then was to walk from the reviewing stand to the top of the Capitol steps and take the oath standing on the spot where, 106 years ago, Jefferson Davis became president of the Confederacy.

Two Young Children Perish In Ohio Fire

BARBERTON, Ohio (AP)—Two young children perished early today in a fire at their home here.

Police identified the victims as John Taylor, 2, and his sister, Bobbi Lynn, 3, children of Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Taylor.

Taylor and a neighbor, Hugh Fortney, tried to get to the children, who were in an upstairs bedroom, but were driven back by the smoke and flames.

Cause of the fire was undetermined.

Police identified the victims as John Taylor, 2, and his sister, Bobbi Lynn, 3, children of Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Taylor.

Taylor and a neighbor, Hugh Fortney, tried to get to the children, who were in an upstairs bedroom, but were driven back by the smoke and flames.

Cause of the fire was undetermined.

Scouts Set Plans For Cookie Sale In Upper Valley

A series of Girl Scout cookie sale planning meetings has been held by the Upper Ohio Valley Girl Scout Council to train district and neighborhood cookie sale personnel.

The coordinator for the sale in the East Liverpool - Wellsville area is Mrs. Harriet Lanam of 809 Commerce St., Wellsville, who has announced that order taking will begin Feb. 3 and will conclude Feb. 11. Delivery to the public will be made between March 15 and March 18. Inquiries concerning the sale may be directed to Mrs. Lanam or to the cookie sale clerk, Mrs. Nelson Ritner, at Girl Scout Headquarters, 505 Board of Trade Building, Wheeling.

The annual sale is the largest single money - raising effort by Scouts and their parents. Proceeds from the sale are used for general program administration and to promote the various camping opportunities offered by the Council.

Ann Landers

ANSWERS YOUR PROBLEMS

Dear Ann Landers: I'd like to help the woman with the jealous husband. Mine was like that, too, and for absolutely no reason. Finally I asked him to tell me why he was so suspicious. He relieed, "Because I'm insecure. You don't pay enough attention to me."

That evening he asked me to listen for the telephone while he took a bath. I told him to heck with the telephone. I wanted to keep him company. I perched myself on the rim of the tub and described "My Day." (I ignored his sighs of boredom.)

After his bath he went to the den to read the newspaper and I curled up in his lap and stayed there until he asked me to please get off because I was getting heavy. Then I insisted that he come to the kitchen and keep me company while I did the dishes.

The next day I telephoned him at work three times to say I was lonesome for him and to please come straight home. He said he'd be home at 6:15. When he arrived at 6:25 I asked him why he was late. I said I was worried.

For one solid week I carried on this absurd routine until finally he asked me to leave him alone. I told him I was only trying to make him feel secure. He said, "I'm so secure now I'm suffocating. Please get off my back."

Things are normal once more and I no longer see a single trace of jealousy. — VICTORIOUS.

Dear Vic: Thanks for letting us in on the "Great Experiment." The wife with adhesive qualities does not make her husband feel secure, she merely underscores her own insecurity. Moreover, she displays a sorry lack of confidence which can cause bitter resentment. Too many people never learn that the surest way to put out a fire is to smother it.

Defends Teachers

Dear Ann: I recently read the letter from the mother who lambasted teachers who "waste" school time trying to build character instead of concentrating on the three Rs.

I wish the mother who wrote that letter could stand behind me for 24 hours. For the last 30 years I have been working with delinquents and criminals. While many lawbreakers are poorly educated, some have had excellent schooling. They get into trouble not because they are uneducated but because they have had no character training.

I would like to tell the complaining mother that she should be thankful for teachers who talk about honesty and integrity because some students never learn about these things at home. The child who grows up with no character training and no example to follow is a menace to society.

One of the best definitions I ever have heard is this one: "Character is what you are when you think nobody is looking."

You have my permission to print my letter and my name. I'm sheriff of New Haven County.—J. EDWARD SLAVIN.

Dear Sheriff: Many thanks for a superb letter. I hope thousands of teachers from coast to coast will see it — and I'm sure they will. A recent survey made by the National Educational Association revealed that this column is read by more teachers than any other column in the nation's newspapers.

Confidentially

TO NEEDED AN UNBIASED OPINION: You should not have discussed your personal troubles with those two. The only people who will listen objectively to both sides of an argument are the neighbors — and to them it's purely entertainment.

Ann Landers will be glad to help you with your problems. Send them to her in care of The Review, enclosing a self-addressed, stamped envelope.

Cleveland Teachers Union Schedules Vote

CLEVELAND (AP) — The Cleveland Teachers Union was to vote today on whether to strike, unless an agreement was reached in morning and afternoon talks with the board of education.

Neither side was optimistic about reaching a settlement over pay scales before the union meeting scheduled for the afternoon.

The union claims a membership of 3,000, one-half of some 6,000 teachers in the system.

Last week the union rejected by 80 per cent an offer that would have raised the salary of beginning teachers from $5,300 to $5,750 and the maximum pay of teachers with a master's degree from $9,329 to $10,250.

A suspicion of dry mustard added to a cheddar cheese sauce points up flavor.

Four Massillon Servicemen Are Mourned By City

MASSILLON, Ohio (AP) — Flags flew at half-staff and many persons observed a silent moment of prayer Sunday, mourning four Massillon servicemen killed in Vietnam last week.

Three Marines, who enlisted together under the "buddy system", were killed last Wednesday when their helicopter crashed 340 miles south of Saigon. The next day, a soldier who knew the other three, was killed when an armored personnel carrier he was driving hit a land mine 30 miles south of Saigon.

Mayor William J. Keen proclaimed the day of mourning.

The Marine lance corporals killed in the crash off Chu Lai in the South China Sea were: Timothy Berry, Richard Fuchs and William Coyne. The three, all 20-years-old, grew up together in the same neighborhood, and enlisted in the Marines Dec. 31, 1965 in Cleveland.

They went to Vietnam together as members of the 1st Marine Division.

The soldier, Spec. 4 Robert Bethune Jr., was a member of the 60th Infantry Regiment, 9th Infantry Division. Bethune arrived Vietnam on his 20th birthday, Dec. 20, 1966.

After his bath he went to the den to read the newspaper and I curled up in his lap and stayed there until he asked me to please get off because I was getting heavy. Then I insisted that he come to the kitchen and keep me company while I did the dishes.

The next day I telephoned him at work three times to say I was lonesome for him and to please come straight home. He said he'd be home at 6:15. When he arrived at 6:25 I asked him why he was late. I said I was worried.

For one solid week I carried on this absurd routine until finally he asked me to leave him alone. I told him I was only trying to make him feel secure. He said, "I'm so secure now I'm suffocating. Please get off my back."

Things are normal once more and I no longer see a single trace of jealousy. — VICTORIOUS.

Dear Vic: Thanks for letting us in on the "Great Experiment." The wife with adhesive qualities does not make her husband feel secure, she merely underscores her own insecurity. Moreover, she displays a sorry lack of confidence which can cause bitter resentment. Too many people never learn that the surest way to put out a fire is to smother it.

Defends Teachers

Dear Ann: I recently read the letter from the mother who lambasted teachers who "waste" school time trying to build character instead of concentrating on the three Rs.

I wish the mother who wrote that letter could stand behind me for 24 hours. For the last 30 years I have been working with delinquents and criminals. While many lawbreakers are poorly educated, some have had excellent schooling. They get into trouble not because they are uneducated but because they have had no character training.

I would like to tell the complaining mother that she should be thankful for teachers who talk about honesty and integrity because some students never learn about these things at home. The child who grows up with no character training and no example to follow is a menace to society.

One of the best definitions I ever have heard is this one: "Character is what you are when you think nobody is looking."

You have my permission to print my letter and my name. I'm sheriff of New Haven County.—J. EDWARD SLAVIN.

Dear Sheriff: Many thanks for a superb letter. I hope thousands of teachers from coast to coast will see it — and I'm sure they will. A recent survey made by the National Educational Association revealed that this column is read by more teachers than any other column in the nation's newspapers.

Confidentially

TO NEEDED AN UNBIASED OPINION: You should not have discussed your personal troubles with those two. The only people who will listen objectively to both sides of an argument are the neighbors — and to them it's purely entertainment.

Four Massillon Servicemen Are Mourned By City

MASSILLON, Ohio (AP) — Flags flew at half-staff and many persons observed a silent moment of prayer Sunday, mourning four Massillon servicemen killed in Vietnam last week.

Three Marines, who enlisted together under the "buddy system", were killed last Wednesday when their helicopter crashed 340 miles south of Saigon. The next day, a soldier who knew the other three, was killed when an armored personnel carrier he was driving hit a land mine 30 miles south of Saigon.

Mayor William J. Keen proclaimed the day of mourning.

The Marine lance corporals killed in the crash off Chu Lai in the South China Sea were: Timothy Berry, Richard Fuchs and William Coyne. The three, all 20-years-old, grew up together in the same neighborhood, and enlisted in the Marines Dec. 31, 1965 in Cleveland.

They went to Vietnam together as members of the 1st Marine Division.

The soldier, Spec. 4 Robert Bethune Jr., was a member of the 60th Infantry Regiment, 9th Infantry Division. Bethune arrived Vietnam on his 20th birthday, Dec. 20, 1966.

Cleveland Teachers Union Schedules Vote

CLEVELAND (AP) — The Cleveland Teachers Union was to vote today on whether to strike, unless an agreement was reached in morning and afternoon talks with the board of education.

Neither side was optimistic about reaching a settlement over pay scales before the union meeting scheduled for the afternoon.

The union claims a membership of 3,000, one-half of some 6,000 teachers in the system.

Last week the union rejected by 80 per cent an offer that would have raised the salary of beginning teachers from $5,300 to $5,750 and the maximum pay of teachers with a master's degree from $9,329 to $10,250.

Foes Of Canal Expand Battle

COLUMBUS, Ohio — Opponents of the Lake Erie - Ohio River Canal have launched an advertising campaign in a direct appeal to residents of the four eastern Ohio counties through which the canal would be constructed.

The counties are Mahoning, Trumbull, Lake and Ashtabula.

Under the heading, "The Great Canal Boondoggle," the newspaper advertisement was scheduled for a full page in all daily papers and a half - page in the weekly newspapers in the area.

It warned readers against "being stampeded into millions of dollars of new taxes for a canal that will hurt you and the future of this area," and specified the millions of dollars of local costs which must be borne by taxpayers in each county.

Radio spot announcements covering the four counties, as well as the newspaper ads, suggested that residents demand hearings before local government bodies because "self-serving canal promoters are trying right now to fast - talk your county commissioners and your city councils into passing resolutions approving the canal and, in effect, pledging added millions of your tax dollars to finance the project."

The Upper Ohio Valley Association (UOVA), sponsor of the advertising, offered to provide spokesmen to describe "what is involved in the Corps of Engineers' own estimate of costs," before any public body requesting them.

The UOVA campaign was obviously an answer to the pro-canal campaign, launched at a dinner held by the promoters at Youngstown Country Club Jan. 6 for about 140 political leaders from the canal route counties, Mahoning, Trumbull, Lake and Ashtabula. Political subdivisions there were asked to act promptly in passing resolutions which could be used as alleged evidence of "local cooperation", as required by the Army engineers' report on the canal project.

Groundbreaking Is Held

More than 40 attended a groundbreaking ceremony Saturday for the E. C. St. George Co., an industrial machine shop, at its new site along Route 168 opposite the Ohioville fire station.

In the brief ceremony, Mayor Gifford welcomed the firm, now located in Industry, which has a work force of 14, and expects to employ 20 or more at its new location.

St. George said further expansion is anticipated in the next several months. The firm services small and major steel companies specializing in rolling equipment.

Gifford commended Wilbert Basinger of Basinger Enterprises, which is constructing the 98-by-40-foot building.

Others taking part in the ceremony were Robert Zapsic, Beaver County Planning Commission director, and Earl Rankin, chairman of the industrial development committee of the Midland Area Chamber of Commerce.

Others attending were members of the Ohioville Council and the Beaver County Industrial Development Agency and several employes of the St. George firm.

District Union Sets Officers

Allen Pethel and Shirley Jackson, both of East Liverpool, were elected to fill the posts of resigning officeholders when the East Liverpool Printing Specialties and Paper Products Union held its annual election of shop stewards Saturday at the former IBOP Hall on W. 6th St.

Elected chief shop stewards were Betty Brewer of Laurel Heights, Chester, an employe at the National Church Supply Co. of Chester, and Michael Winters of 1019 Florence St., East Liverpool, who will hold a similar post at the American Paper Products Co. in Youngstown.

Other stewards elected were Patricia May of East Liverpool, envelope department, and Edna Caruso of Chester, printing department.

Four employed at the American Paper Products Co. also were named stewards. They are: Elsie Moore, East Liverpool, folding department; Eric Sheppard, Wellsville, printing department; Richard Joy, East Liverpool, shipping and miscellaneous, and Charles Elliott of East Liverpool, night turn steward.

Taxi Owner Showing 'Em Way To Go Home

GREENOCK, Scotland (AP)— Douglas Lawrence, a local taxi owner, has started a special service to take drunk drivers home.

For the ordinary taxi fare plus 7 shillings and 6 pence ($1.05) the drunk driver is driven home while another driver takes his car home and garages it.

This experiment has gone on for some weeks and is highly successful, Lawrence said.

The drunks taken home agreed the dollar charge was cheap compared with a possible fine in court, Lawrence said.

Hints from Heloise

— By Heloise Cruse —

Dear Heloise: Does your curtain above the kitchen sink need to be washed often?

Did you wash, starch and iron that curtain last week only to find it needs it again?

I did this with mine until I made new curtains and decided I wasn't going to wear them out with constant washings.

Now I slip a large, clean plastic bag up from the bottom, over the curtain and pin it with straight pins. It doesn't show much, and when company walks in I can feel free to invite them to the kitchen for a cup of java!

When I have company, it only takes 30 seconds to "undress" my clean curtain.

MOTHER OF FOUR BOYS.

DEAR HELOISE: When I was a chorus girl our shoes rubbed painful blisters on our heels and sometimes on our insteps.

One of the older, experienced girls in the line told me to tear off a piece of cellophane from my package of cigarettes and slide it between my shoe and the irritated place. Oh, what blessed relief!

I have been using it for years now and haven't found anything else that works as well.

For garter belts that bit into my hips and left painful, itchy welts . . . you guessed it, I tried the cellophane under the binding and got instant relief.

I also found that cutting shoulder straps could be eased this way, too.

BARBARA BOND.

-:-

DEAR BARBARA: We think it's great and thanks for relieving some of our pains. I tried it on a long-line bra where the stay was absolutely killing me one night. It worked like a charm.

HELOISE.

DEAR HELOISE: If you have an electric toothbrush — reserve a brush that is no longer usable for teeth.

It's wonderful for scrubbing finger nails.

Run it across a bar of soap a few times, then plug it in. It cleans around and under nails just perfectly.

I always do this before I polish my nails.

IRENE MIELS.

DEAR HELOISE: If you have wondered what to do with sugar bowls not being used, put your jams or jellies in them.

Since they have covers, they can be put directly into the refrigerator that way.

EMMA USITALO.

-:-

DEAR HELOISE: In answer to Mrs. Sauter's question about making belts stiff again:

I buy stiff grosgrain ribbon, slightly narrower than the belt, shrink the ribbon with hot water and rip off the cardboard backing of the belt.

I then edge-stitch the belt on to the grosgrain ribbon.

Looks like a new belt again.

MRS. W. F.

DEAR HELOISE: When you find your raisins all dried out, put them in a colander over slowly boiling water with a lid or bowl over the raisins.

In a few minutes you will have plump raisins again, fresh as ever.

ARNES PETERNEL.

DEAR HELOISE: I bought a piece of peg board to fit directly above the back of my stove.

I painted it to match my color scheme and hung all my kitchen tools, spatulas, etc., within handy reach on the little hooks that fit on it.

Keeps them neat and saves on drawer space which we wives never seem to find enough of.

I also put one in the back of my sons' closet for them to hang jackets, hats, toys, etc. Sure helps the back bending on my part, as it's much easier for them to help keep their room orderly.

Authorities Hunt Man In Shooting 6, One Fatally

HAMILTON, Ohio (AP) — Ohio and Kentucky police sought today a Hamilton man wanted for questioning in the shooting Sunday of six persons, one fatally.

Police said Vernon Mitchell Godby, 40, who fled following the affray, was believed headed for central Kentucky.

A dispute between two children led to the shooting, which took the life of Jackie Lynn Fields, 2, and wounded her father, grandmother, two sisters and a brother.

Police said one of the Fields children, visiting at the home of the grandmother, Mrs. Judy Fields, 67, apparently stabbed a neighbor boy, Daniel Godby, 14, with a knife.

Shortly after that, Mrs. Fields answered her front door and a man identified as the senior Godby began shooting with a .25 caliber automatic.

The little girl was shot fatally in the chest. Her father, Chester Fields, 35, suffered serious wounds in his chest and abdomen. Mrs. Fields was shot in the right thigh. Stanley Fields, 13, was hit in the left leg. Imogene Fields, 8, was shot in the hand and foot. Sharon Fields, 4, was shot in the left leg.

All were in fair condition in Mercy Hospital.

Hints from Heloise

— By Heloise Cruse —

Dear Heloise: Does your curtain above the kitchen sink need to be washed often?

Did you wash, starch and iron that curtain last week only to find it needs it again?

I did this with mine until I made new curtains and decided I wasn't going to wear them out with constant washings.

Now I slip a large, clean plastic bag up from the bottom, over the curtain and pin it with straight pins. It doesn't show much, and when company walks in I can feel free to invite them to the kitchen for a cup of java!

When I have company, it only takes 30 seconds to "undress" my clean curtain.

If You're Weather-Bound

It's A Good Time To Paint

If the winter weather drives you inside, don't twiddle your thumbs and sigh! Start on a winning beautification program indoors with paint.

Almost any room can be quickly and easily changed to a brighter, happier place with an investment of only a few dollars.

Remember that a paint job is only as good as its foundation. First, fill all cracks in plaster walls with spackling material, using a putty knife, a kitchen knife, or a versatile finger and thumb. When the patching is completely dry, sand the surface smooth and you're ready to apply the undercoating or primer.

IF YOU HAVE a high ceiling, rig a raised platform from two strong ladders and a wide plank. Allow the plank to extend at least a foot beyond the step of the ladder on which it rests. Make sure that the ladders are fully open and locked in position for safety.

To make your painting easier, remove all hardware and light fixtures from the room or cover them with masking tape. Then dust your walls thoroughly. Kitchen and bathroom walls require washing with household cleansers to remove caked on dirt or grease.

Before you begin to paint, the National Paint, Varnish and Lacquer Association of Washington, D.C., stresses that you read the manufacturer's directions carefully. Every suggestion should be followed to the letter in order to obtain a beautiful paint job.

A film of protective cream on your hands will make clean-up a snap. Carry this idea a bit further and rub a cream hairdressing into your hair. You'll find that stray splatters will wash out easily.

If the directions suggest that you stir the paint, use a wooden spatula and stir until absolutely no color pigment remains in the bottom of the can. For protection, cover all floors and furniture with drop cloths before painting.

No matter how careful you are, a few splatters are inevitable. You can minimize splattering by dipping the bristle of your brush no more than one-third of the bristle length into the paint. Wipe up any splatters immediately with a damp cloth — don't wait until the paint has dried.

WHEN PAINTING a ceiling, work across the width of the room to enable you to begin the second lap before the first has dried. And — remember — don't try to move your ladder with paint or tools aboard.

After you paint the ceiling, begin on the walls, starting at an upper left hand corner and working down toward the floor. Follow this order whether you are using a brush or a roller.

Now you are ready to tackle the woodwork. A round one-inch brush is handy for the window sash and a two-inch brush makes painting the trim a simple affair. When you paint paneled doors, it's a good idea to coat the panels first, then the center rail. The top and bottom rails come next, then the vertical stiles, and the edges last.

As soon as you are finished, clean up your brushes and tools so they will be in good shape for your next painting spree. Now — wait until the paint is dry before removing the drop-cloths. See how a new, attractive setting can chase away your winter blues.

THE WRAPAROUND DECK distinguishes this A-frame plan, perfect for the shore or mountains—a very fine second house. The garage, recreation room and utilities are on the ground level. Living-dining and kitchen facilities plus two bedrooms and bath are on the main level, and a balcony bedroom is provided on the upper level. The area is 875 square feet for the main level. Plan HA482C was designed by architect Lester Cohen, Room 704, 48 W. 48th St., New York, N.Y. 10036.

Even Novice Can Handle Floor Tile's Installation

By ANDY LANG
AP Newsfeatures

Thinking about trying your hand at installing resilient floor tiles?

Stop worrying. You can do it—even if your previous do-it-yourself experience has been confined to hanging a picture frame.

It's because the installation of floor tiles is the kind of project that can be undertaken by the rawest novice that these tiles zoomed to such heights of popularity in recent years.

Anybody can cement a single tile to the floor. And covering an entire floor is merely a case of putting down one tile after another. Well, perhaps it isn't that simple, since there are such things as measuring and applying the cement properly.

But it's the kind of job wherein a beginner who follows certain fundamentals can get as good a result as someone who has installed half a dozen such floors.

QUITE possibly, the amateur may have more trouble making up his mind what kind of tiles to install than he has in the actual installation.

There is such a wide variety of tiles now on the market that it is sometimes a bit difficult making a selection. Not only are there dozens of patterns and colors from which to make a choice; there are many different kinds of tiles — and many different prices.

If cost is the main consideration, asphalt tile is likely to get the nod. But there's a big "if" here.

Regular asphalt tile has a low resistance to grease and chemicals, which would make its use in a kitchen, for example, somewhat dubious. A special type of grease-resistant asphalt tile costs more than the ordinary kind.

Asphalt tile has excellent resistance to alkali and is therefore often used in basements and on similar surfaces blow ground.

Whereas asphalt tile once was the big seller, vinyl asbestos has displaced it in popularity.

That's because of its versatility, resistance to grease and wear, and ease of maintenance. It can be used anywhere in the house. While not as inexpensive as regular asphalt, it is comparatively low in price.

OTHER KINDS of resilient tiles include rubber, linoleum, cork and solid vinyl. While you will be guided by your pocketbook to a considerable extent, be sure to discuss with your dealer whether the type of tile which suits your fancy is recommended for the area where the tile will be installed.

And be sure, after you have made the selection, that you get the proper adhesive for that particular tile. That's why it's wise to buy the tile and the adhesive in the same place, purchasing the adhesive that the dealer recommends rather than the kind which you select from a shelf.

You Can Use A Screen To Hide Trash Holder

By DOUGLAS TUOMEY

The designs of many of the best houses built during the last few years show a decided trend toward making a feature of the rear of the house.

Terraces across the back of the house, where sunbathing and lounging can be indulged in with complete privacy are signs of this. One of the drawbacks to this idea is that the average house has a kitchen door at the back of the house, and that's the spot where the trash and garbage are kept.

The answer to any such problem is nicely solved by making a screen of two or three shutters or plain panels of wood. These are hinged so that they may be folded back, and they are also hinged to a strip nailed to the rear wall of the house. Just enough space is left between the screen and the doorway to accommodate the cans or containers you want to keep out of sight.

The screen should match the wall of the house, so as to be as inconspicuous as possible. Hinges should be galvanized and strong enough to hold the screen upright without sagging to the floor of the terrace.

There are other uses for such screens outside of hiding objectionable things.

They can be installed to act as windbreaks or as sun shades. They can be made to stand freely without being attached to the wall and can be moved about to cast shade or break the breeze.

If made for this purpose, they should have small casters on the bottom edge. Properly proportioned, these screens are an addition to any porch or terrace.

Wood Finishing Hailed As Hobby It 'Tested' First

AP Newsfeatures

Question: I am 64 years old and will retire from my job in a bank next year.

For some time now, I have been casting about for a likely hobby, but just haven't been able to settle on anything—until recently.

I now feel that I would like to take up wood finishing, since I remember the pleasure I got about 25 years ago when I removed the finish from an old table and put on a new coat of varnish. That table's still around, by the way. Is wood finishing a good hobby for a man my age? If so, what advice can you give me about getting started?

ANSWER: Wood finishing is an excellent hobby for anyone — man or woman — of any age. It is especially satisfying because it satisfies the creative urge in all of us.

To take a piece of wood and transform it into something that is pleasing to the eye, as well as practical, gives real pleasure. However, it is not enough to say that you are going to decide on a hobby and then go ahead and practice it, especially on the basis of a single experience 25 years ago.

You have to learn to like it, otherwise there's no point to the whole thing. Why not get into it gradually?

Now, before you retire, purchase a piece of unfinished furniture.

Get one of the hardwoods, which generally take clear finishes better than softwoods, although some of the latter, such as certain types of pine, also can be given excellent clear finishes. Buy some sandpaper, a sealer and a can of varnish. Follow the directions on the container or get yourself some reading material on wood finishing. Go to work on the furniture.

If you get absorbed in the project, try another. . .then another. Experiment with other kinds of clear finishes. You'll soon know whether this is something that will intrigue you week after week.

If it is, you can begin looking into some of the other things that make wood finishing fascinating — pumices, rottenstone, plastics, stains, bleaches, fillers, waxes and dozens of others.

You won't have to decide whether wood finishing should be your hobby at age 65. The decision will come automatically without thinking about it. Good luck.

It Can Be 'Tamed'

Combine minerals in the calcium and magnesium groups with the water that falls from the skies and you get what is known as hard water.

That is, you get it unless you live in one of the few areas of the country (about 15 per cent) where the water is soft or nearly soft.

The element of hardness in water is what causes that ring around the bathtub as well as the film on glassware, fabrics, skin and hair. Even more important, from the standpoint of your pocketbook, hard water forms a scale that shortens the life of boilers, water heaters, hot water pipes, air conditioners, etc.

Little thought was given to the problem of hard water not too many years ago, except by scientists hired to discover the whys and wherefores of water purification for government and commercial organizations.

Today, there are many companies which turn out thousands of water - conditioning devices geared to the needs of the home owner. Yet there are millions of persons living daily with hard water without any real knowledge of the advantages of soft water in making clothes cleaner, dishes more sparkling, shaving easier, coffee taste better, household plants hardier, and on and on.

A plumbing authority told us recently that heating and water equipment in soft - water areas often lasted two or three times longer than that in hard-water localities.

Where the hard water problem is severe and a decision is made to end the situation, one of the full-size water softeners is recommended.

But it now is possible to buy a water purifier which can be placed on the kitchen wall, under a standard cabinet if desired. It will produce up to three gallons of crystal-clear water a day, enough to handle an average family's needs for drinking and cooking.

The home's ordinary water moves through the device, with a specially - constructed membrane removing the impurities. It's not an electrical gadget; that is, it requires no electrical connection. The water is forced through the membrane by its own pressure.

In any case, whether a regular water softener or the smaller water purifier is used, hard water can be tamed.

New Certificate Now In Use For World Travelers

LISBON — The new international certificate of vaccination was placed in use Jan. 1 for international travel, according to Dr. M. K. Singer, Columbiana County Health Commissioner.

He said the new certificate requires a physician to indicate he used a freeze-dried or liquid vaccine certified to fulfill the World Health Organization's recommended requirements for manufacturers of the vaccine.

The physician also must record the origin and batch number of the vaccine.

The Clerk of Courts office, which issues the vaccination and personal health history booklet to applicants for passports, has applied for the new certificates but has not received them. The office refers applicants to the county health department office which has a supply.

The U.S. Public Health Service at Silver Spring, Md., said smallpox, cholera and yellow fever vaccination certificates already issued remain valid until the expiration date on the certificate.

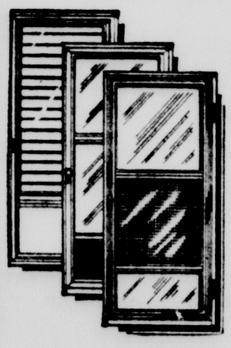

The new edition includes changes in the smallpox and yellow fever vaccination certificates as amended by the 18th World Health Assembly in May 1965.

Dr. Singer said it is important for travelers and physicians to use the new certificate. It can be identified by "PHS-731 Rev. 9-66" in the lower left corner of the cover.

If You're Weather-Bound

It's A Good Time To Paint

If the winter weather drives you inside, don't twiddle your thumbs and sigh! Start on a winning beautification program indoors with paint.

Almost any room can be quickly and easily changed to a brighter, happier place with an investment of only a few dollars.

Remember that a paint job is only as good as its foundation. First, fill all cracks in plaster walls with spackling material, using a putty knife, a kitchen knife, or a versatile finger and thumb. When the patching is completely dry, sand the surface smooth and you're ready to apply the undercoating or primer.

IF YOU HAVE a high ceiling, rig a raised platform from two strong ladders and a wide plank. Allow the plank to extend at least a foot beyond the step of the ladder on which it rests. Make sure that the ladders are fully open and locked in position for safety.

To make your painting easier, remove all hardware and light fixtures from the room or cover them with masking tape. Then dust your walls thoroughly. Kitchen and bathroom walls require washing with household cleansers to remove caked on dirt or grease.

Before you begin to paint, the National Paint, Varnish and Lacquer Association of Washington, D.C., stresses that you read the manufacturer's directions carefully. Every suggestion should be followed to the letter in order to obtain a beautiful paint job.

A film of protective cream on your hands will make clean-up a snap. Carry this idea a bit further and rub a cream hairdressing into your hair. You'll find that stray splatters will wash out easily.

If the directions suggest that you stir the paint, use a wooden spatula and stir until absolutely no color pigment remains in the bottom of the can. For protection, cover all floors and furniture with drop cloths before painting.

No matter how careful you are, a few splatters are inevitable. You can minimize splattering by dipping the bristle of your brush no more than one-third of the bristle length into the paint. Wipe up any splatters immediately with a damp cloth — don't wait until the paint has dried.

WHEN PAINTING a ceiling, work across the width of the room to enable you to begin the second lap before the first has dried. And — remember — don't try to move your ladder with paint or tools aboard.

After you paint the ceiling, begin on the walls, starting at an upper left hand corner and working down toward the floor. Follow this order whether you are using a brush or a roller.

Now you are ready to tackle the woodwork. A round one-inch brush is handy for the window sash and a two-inch brush makes painting the trim a simple affair. When you paint paneled doors, it's a good idea to coat the panels first, then the center rail. The top and bottom rails come next, then the vertical stiles, and the edges last.

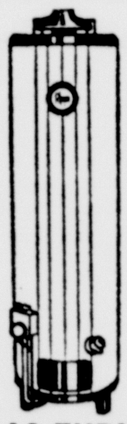

As soon as you are finished, clean up your brushes and tools so they will be in good shape for your next painting spree. Now — wait until the paint is dry before removing the drop-cloths. See how a new, attractive setting can chase away your winter blues.

Even Novice Can Handle Floor Tile's Installation

By ANDY LANG
AP Newsfeatures

Thinking about trying your hand at installing resilient floor tiles?

Stop worrying. You can do it—even if your previous do-it-yourself experience has been confined to hanging a picture frame.

It's because the installation of floor tiles is the kind of project that can be undertaken by the rawest novice that these tiles zoomed to such heights of popularity in recent years.

Anybody can cement a single tile to the floor. And covering an entire floor is merely a case of putting down one tile after another. Well, perhaps it isn't that simple, since there are such things as measuring and applying the cement properly.

But it's the kind of job wherein a beginner who follows certain fundamentals can get as good a result as someone who has installed half a dozen such floors.

QUITE possibly, the amateur may have more trouble making up his mind what kind of tiles to install than he has in the actual installation.

Steel Picture Brightens For First Quarter

CLEVELAND (AP)—The steel market is emerging from the doldrums of late last year and steelmakers are becoming more optimistic about the first quarter of 1967 as shipments and orders improve, Steel Magazine said today.

Steel producers report strength in several steel consuming industries, despite cutbacks in automobile and appliance production, Steel said, adding, "Another important factor: Steel inventories are smaller in relation to consumption than they were a year ago."

The metalworking weekly cited other strong points:

—Demand for electrical sheets is stronger than a year ago.

—Orders for tin plates are improving steadily.

—Buying of standard pipe is increasing.

—Defense orders for shell billets and bomb casing are rising.

—Plates, bars and structurals continue in strong demand from builders of railroad cars and roadbuilding equipment.

The magazine said some users still have little incentive to order ahead. It attributed this to a desire to keep stocks low and the knowledge that they can count on mills for fast service.

Automotive buying is up about 10 per cent from the December 1966 level, Steel said.

The magazine estimates U.S. mills will ship about 7.1 million tons of steel in January (compared with about 6.7 million in December and 6.6 million in January 1966). First quarter deliveries are expected to approximate those of last year's first period: 21.6 million tons.

Despite light buying of scrap, Steel Magazine's composite price on No. 1 heavy melting material held at $27.67 a gross ton, unchanged from the preiod: 21.6 million tons.

The magazine said the steel making rate in the Youngstown area held at 70 per cent of the 1960 capacity last week, Cincinnati area production slumped 10 points to about 87.5 per cent of 1960 capacity and Pittsburgh activity recovering from the holiday slump, was estimated at 80 per cent of 1960.

Communication Via Lani Bird 2 Due U.S.-Japan

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Communications Satellite Corp. plans to inaugurate commercial communications service between the United States and Japan late this month via its new Lani Bird satellite.

Lani Bird 2, officially known as intelsat Satellite 2, was launched Wednesday from Cape Kennedy, Fla., and reached a synchronous orbit Saturday 22,300 miles above earth.

The new Lani Bird, replacing Lani Bird 1 which failed to achieve synchronous orbit, is designed to serve as a new communications link between the United States and the Far East.

A spokesman said Comsat will begin today 10 days of tests to determine the spacecraft's communications capacity. It is expected to have about 240 circuits. The first, for use between America and Japan, is scheduled tentatively to be opened Jan. 26.

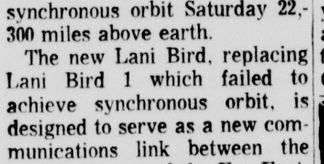

When launched, Lani Bird 2 reached an eliptical orbit ranging between 160 and 19,911 nautical miles above earth. Comsat sent the spacecraft Saturday into a stationary orbit over the Pacific at the international date line.

Because Lani Bird 1 did not reach a synchronous orbit, it could be used for communications only on a part-time basis. Its 35 circuits now will be used only during emergencies.

On April 1, the Defense Department will claim 30 circuits —10 each for communications between Hawaii, Japan, the Philippines and Thailand. The National Aeronautics and Space Administration has contracted for half of the new satellite's communications channels.

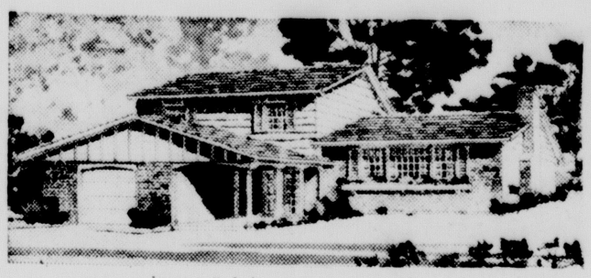

One of the more painful blows below the belt is the price of restaurant meals.

SIDE-TO-SIDE SPLIT LEVEL. Plan HA481Y, has the garage so positioned that it can be built on a 60-foot lot, either flat land or a gently sloping plot. The family room is served directly by the foyer and also by the kitchen, making it perfect for entertaining guests. The family room has either sliding glass doors or a picture window; a lavatory is conveniently located off the family room. Table space in the kitchen is near the double window. Three bedrooms are upstairs and one downstairs; a minimum of waste hall space serves this area. Living and bedroom areas have 1,184 square feet of living space; the lower level slab area has 598 square feet. Architect is Herman York, 90-04 161st St., Jamaica, N.Y.

2 8-Year-Old Boys Drown In Gravel Pit

MANSFIELD, Ohio (AP) — Two 8-year-old boys out exploring drowned Sunday when they apparently tumbled into a water-filled gravel pit.

The bodies of Bartley Roy Parsons of Butler and Randy Lee Livingstone of Mansfield were recovered from a quarry along Ohio 97 at Bellville.

The boys were visiting one youth's grandmother in Bellville and left there about 1:15 p.m. to go exploring, the Richland County Sheriff's Office said.

The gravel pit was searched when an uncle, looking for the boys since they had failed to return after several hours, found a red sweater floating on the water.

If you need mixed pickling spice in a recipe and here is none in the kitchen, but you do have a variety of other spice on hand, you can make your own mixed combination. To do so, use allspice berries, whole coriander seeds, bits of dry ginger root, small pieces of torn bay leaf, peppercorns, small pieces of blade mace.

Many Things Can Cause A Fireplace To 'Smoke'

AP Newsfeature

Question: The fireplace in our living room is very smoky. As a result, we hardly ever use it —and when we do, we regret it. Is there anything we can do about it?

Answer: Yes, but there are so many things that cause a smoky fireplace that you must make an effort to find out the cause before you can attempt to eliminate it.

Has the fireplace been smoky ever since you moved into the house? Or did it work properly for years and then begin to smoke?

If the former, then it might be the result of some outside obstruction or a structural defect. It, for instance, there is a portion of the house higher than the chimney — or even large trees whose branches spread out over the top of the chimney—a downdraft may be occurring, which naturally would send the fireplace smoke into the room. While the chimney could be built higher, placing a hood over it will have the same effect.

You can buy the proper-size hood at a building supply dealer, but you may need professional help in installing it if the chimney top is not easy to reach.

Another possibility, if the fireplace has never worked properly, is that the firplace opening is too large for the size of the flue. Since enlarging the flue is a major job, try to cut down the size of the fireplace opening.

You can do this by building up the floor of the fireplace with bricks or, better yet, attaching strips of metal along the top edge of the fireplace. Either of these steps will reduce the size of the opening.

However, if the fireplace has worked well for a long time and then suddenly developed the smoking habit, there may be an obstruction inside the chimney, a leak in the flue or something else requiring the services of an expert.

But before you do a single thing in connection with the smoky fireplace, try a little experiment.

The next time the fire is roaring and smoke is beginning to enter the room, open a window a little. If the smoke then acts normally — that is, goes up the chimney — the problem is a "too tight" house.

While there are many advantages to a house well sealed with storm windows, weatherstripping and the like, there also are some disadvantages. One is insufficient air to support a fire. Because of this, air comes down the chimney, pushing smoke into the room.

Hamilton Police, Firemen Seek $1,000 Pay Hike

HAMILTON, Ohio (AP) — Police and firemen, who Saturday rejected the city's offer of a $248 a year raise and are demanding $1,000 a year more, indicated Sunday they will attend tonight's council caucus. Other city employe groups also are expected to attend, too.

Workers in the garbage collection, street, motor transport, park, and water and gas distribution departments Friday rejected a 16-cent an hour increase offer. They seek a 25-cent increase.

Those workers, members of Local 475, Municipal Employes Union, AFL-CIO, voted to go on strike today with pickets at the city building, city garage and other locations.

But City Manager C. R Lukens said a state statute, the Ferguson Act, prohibits strikes by municipal employes.

Steel Picture Brightens For First Quarter

CLEVELAND (AP)—The steel market is emerging from the doldrums of late last year and steelmakers are becoming more optimistic about the first quarter of 1967 as shipments and orders improve, Steel Magazine said today.

Steel producers report strength in several steel consuming industries, despite cutbacks in automobile and appliance production, Steel said, adding, "Another important factor: Steel inventories are smaller in relation to consumption than they were a year ago."

The metalworking weekly cited other strong points:

—Demand for electrical sheets is stronger than a year ago.

—Orders for tin plates are improving steadily.

—Buying of standard pipe is increasing.

—Defense orders for shell billets and bomb casing are rising.

—Plates, bars and structurals continue in strong demand from builders of railroad cars and roadbuilding equipment.

The magazine said some users still have little incentive to order ahead. It attributed this to a desire to keep stocks low and the knowledge that they can count on mills for fast service.

Automotive buying is up about 10 per cent from the December 1966 level, Steel said.

The magazine estimates U.S. mills will ship about 7.1 million tons of steel in January (compared with about 6.7 million in December and 6.6 million in January 1966). First quarter deliveries are expected to approximate those of last year's first period: 21.6 million tons.

Despite light buying of scrap, Steel Magazine's composite price on No. 1 heavy melting material held at $27.67 a gross ton, unchanged from the preiod: 21.6 million tons.

The magazine said the steel making rate in the Youngstown area held at 70 per cent of the 1960 capacity last week, Cincinnati area production slumped 10 points to about 87.5 per cent of 1960 capacity and Pittsburgh activity recovering from the holiday slump, was estimated at 80 per cent of 1960.

Communication Via Lani Bird 2 Due U.S.-Japan

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Communications Satellite Corp. plans to inaugurate commercial communications service between the United States and Japan late this month via its new Lani Bird satellite.

Lani Bird 2, officially known as intelsat Satellite 2, was launched Wednesday from Cape Kennedy, Fla., and reached a synchronous orbit Saturday 22,300 miles above earth.

The new Lani Bird, replacing Lani Bird 1 which failed to achieve synchronous orbit, is designed to serve as a new communications link between the United States and the Far East.

A spokesman said Comsat will begin today 10 days of tests to determine the spacecraft's communications capacity. It is expected to have about 240 circuits. The first, for use between America and Japan, is scheduled tentatively to be opened Jan. 26.

When launched, Lani Bird 2 reached an eliptical orbit ranging between 160 and 19,911 nautical miles above earth. Comsat sent the spacecraft Saturday into a stationary orbit over the Pacific at the international date line.

Because Lani Bird 1 did not reach a synchronous orbit, it could be used for communications only on a part-time basis. Its 35 circuits now will be used only during emergencies.

On April 1, the Defense Department will claim 30 circuits —10 each for communications between Hawaii, Japan, the Philippines and Thailand. The National Aeronautics and Space Administration has contracted for half of the new satellite's communications channels.

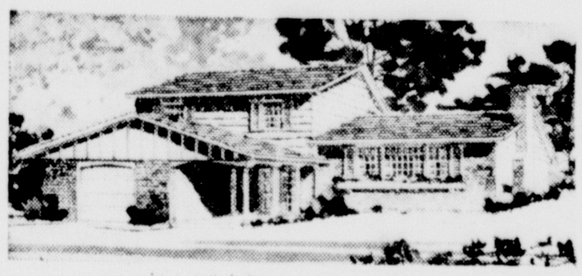

One of the more painful blows below the belt is the price of restaurant meals.

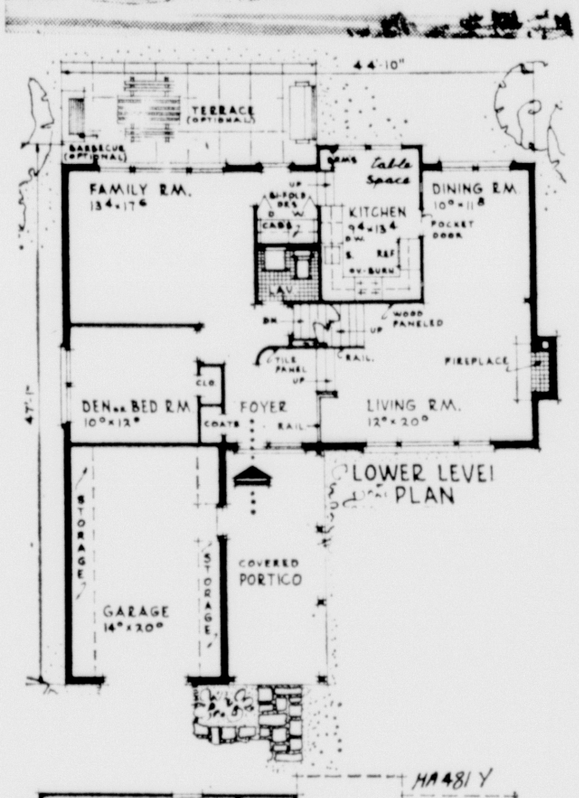

Surely the gods must be chuckling at the prospect of soldiers taking a time out from killing each other in order to celebrate the birthday of the Prince of Peace.

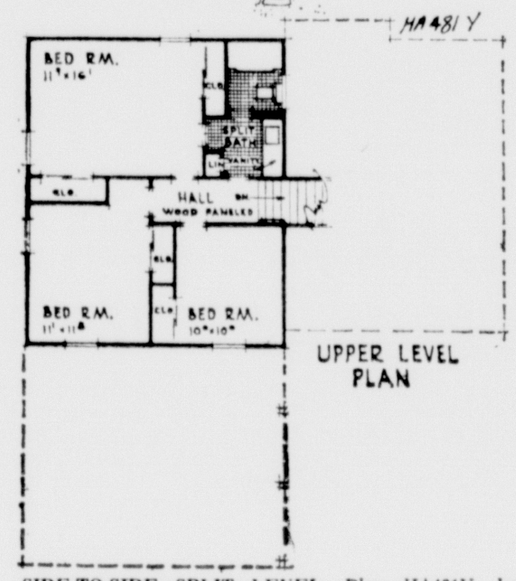

Women in a crowded bus find chivalry is a standing joke.

A woman who slipped off her tight shoes in church later realized the minister must have preached a swell sermon.

SIDE-TO-SIDE SPLIT LEVEL. Plan HA481Y, has the garage so positioned that it can be built on a 60-foot lot, either flat land or a gently sloping plot. The family room is served directly by the foyer and also by the kitchen, making it perfect for entertaining guests. The family room has either sliding glass doors or a picture window; a lavatory is conveniently located off the family room. Table space in the kitchen is near the double window. Three bedrooms are upstairs and one downstairs; a minimum of waste hall space serves this area. Living and bedroom areas have 1,184 square feet of living space; the lower level slab area has 598 square feet. Architect is Herman York, 90-04 161st St., Jamaica, N.Y.

2 8-Year-Old Boys Drown In Gravel Pit

MANSFIELD, Ohio (AP) — Two 8-year-old boys out exploring drowned Sunday when they apparently tumbled into a water-filled gravel pit.

The bodies of Bartley Roy Parsons of Butler and Randy Lee Livingstone of Mansfield were recovered from a quarry along Ohio 97 at Bellville.

The boys were visiting one youth's grandmother in Bellville and left there about 1:15 p.m. to go exploring, the Richland County Sheriff's Office said.

The gravel pit was searched when an uncle, looking for the boys since they had failed to return after several hours, found a red sweater floating on the water.

If you need mixed pickling spice in a recipe and here is none in the kitchen, but you do have a variety of other spice on hand, you can make your own mixed combination. To do so, use allspice berries, whole coriander seeds, bits of dry ginger root, small pieces of torn bay leaf, peppercorns, small pieces of blade mace.

Many Things Can Cause A Fireplace To 'Smoke'

AP Newsfeature

Question: The fireplace in our living room is very smoky. As a result, we hardly ever use it —and when we do, we regret it. Is there anything we can do about it?

Answer: Yes, but there are so many things that cause a smoky fireplace that you must make an effort to find out the cause before you can attempt to eliminate it.

Has the fireplace been smoky ever since you moved into the house? Or did it work properly for years and then begin to smoke?

If the former, then it might be the result of some outside obstruction or a structural defect. If, for instance, there is a portion of the house higher than the chimney — or even large trees whose branches spread out over the top of the chimney—a downdraft may be occurring, which naturally would send the fireplace smoke into the room. While the chimney could be built higher, placing a hood over it will have the same effect.

You can buy the proper-size hood at a building supply dealer, but you may need professional help in installing it if the chimney top is not easy to reach.

Another possibility, if the fireplace has never worked properly, is that the firplace opening is too large for the size of the flue. Since enlarging the flue is a major job, try to cut down the size of the fireplace opening.

You can do this by building up the floor of the fireplace with bricks or, better yet, attaching strips of metal along the top edge of the fireplace. Either of these steps will reduce the size of the opening.

However, if the fireplace has worked well for a long time and then suddenly developed the smoking habit, there may be an obstruction inside the chimney, a leak in the flue or something else requiring the services of an expert.

But before you do a single thing in connection with the smoky fireplace, try a little experiment.

The next time the fire is roaring and smoke is beginning to enter the room, open a window a little. If the smoke then acts normally — that is, goes up the chimney — the problem is a "too tight" house.

While there are many advantages to a house well sealed with storm windows, weatherstripping and the like, there also are some disadvantages. One is insufficient air to support a fire. Because of this, air comes down the chimney, pushing smoke into the room.

Ohio 5-Day Forecast

Temperatures Tuesday through Saturday will average 3-5 degrees below normal with daytime highs generally in the low 30s north, upper 30s south, and overnight lows in the upper teens north, low 20s south. Seasonable temperatures Tuesday, turning cooler midweek, only minor day-to-day temperature changes thereafter. Precipitation will average about .5 inch melted near Lake Erie, about .3 elsewhere, occuring as occasional rain or snow Tuesday and snow flurries daily near Lake Erie thereafter and remainder of state latter part of week.

South Rallies To Nip Potters In Last 7 Seconds, 68-67

★ ★ ★ Warriors Wipe Out Late Lead In 5th Defeat

By BOB DUFFY
Review Sports Editor

Both East Liverpool and Youngstown South tried to give the game away Saturday night at Memorial Auditorium and the Potters finally did by dropping a 68-67 decision before some 1,000 fans.

In the hectic closing minutes which saw the Potters lose a seven - point lead, both teams were guilty of numerous turnovers as the officials were busy whistling violations all over the court.

THE FINAL straw that broke the Potters' back was a field goal by South's Marv McWilson with only seven seconds remaining, which put the Warriors on top 68-67.

After McWilson's goal, East Liverpool called time out and set up a shot for Vern Smith. The Potters put the ball into play with four seconds remaining and Smith got the shot away from the side, but missed.

With 17 seconds left the Potters had taken a one-point lead, 67-66 when junior Earl Diddle calmly sank two foul shots.

IT APPEARED that East Liverpool, which held a 64-56 lead with 2:50 to go, attempted to go into a semi - freeze but lost the ball on turnovers and South got a hot hand to make a successful comeback.

The turnovers first, then the fact the Potters missed five straight fouls in the fourth quarter on the first half of a one and one situation, led directly to the defeat.

After the contest, Potter Coach Clinton McConnell pointed to the turnovers in the late stages of the game and the poor shooting from the foul line in the fourth quarter.

McConnell did not disclose how many turnovers his team had, but a reasonable guess would be 40 or more, with a good share of those mistakes in the fourth quarter and in the second period when the Potters were bothered by South's all-court press.

—:—

UP UNTIL the time the Potters slowed down their offense in the closing minutes they remained in front of South.

East Liverpool led 19-12 at the end of the first quarter, but South opened the second period with a flurry of nine straight points to get back in the contest.

The score was tied seven times in the second period, with the Potters coming out at halftime leading 35-33.

—:—

THE CONTEST continued on a nip-and-tuck basis in the third quarter and again the score was tied on four occasions, but a flurry of nine consecutive points by the Potters seemed to break the game open.

The spree started with 1:20 left in the third quarter when Mike McVay turned in a three-point play to put the Potters in front 49-47. Darryl Herring, Smith and Mitchell Jones followed with field goals to put East Liverpool ahead 55-47.

THE POTTERS remained in front for the first five minutes of the quarter and with 2:50 remaining Herring's goal gave the locals a 63-56 lead.

Tony Boatwright connected on two fouls to begin Youngstown's rally with 2:47 showing on the clock.

Lindsey scored at the 2:03 mark to bring South within three, 63-60. For the next minute the ball exchanged hands numerous times for violations, with the next field goal by Gibbs with 55 seconds to go putting the score at 63-62.

—:—

DIDDLE missed a foul shot with 47 seconds to go, but Jones put the rebound in to put the Potters on top 65-62.

With 32 seconds to go McWilson scored two fouls, bringing the Warriors within one again at 65-64.

As the Potters put the ball in play, Herring fell in backcourt and was called for walking, giving the ball to South with 26 seconds to go. Two seconds later Boatwright, a 6-4 senior, scored from under the board, sending South on top 66-65.

—:—

THE CLOCK showed 17 seconds when McWilson fouled Diddle and the 5-10 junior dropped in both fouls to put the Potters in the lead, 67-66.

McWilson fired the winning goal from inside the key about 20 feet out to decide the contest with only seven seconds remaining.

Both teams shot over 40 per cent, with East Liverpool making 26 of 56 shots for 46 per cent and Youngstown 24 of 56 for 42 per cent.

—:—

SMITH AND McVay carried the Potters' scoring load. Smith fired in 22 points in making 9 of 19 attempts from the field, while McVay cashed in with his season's high scoring 19 and played the most consistent game for the Potters. McVay made 8 of 14 shots. Jones finished in the double figures with 10 points.

The Potters lost Bruce Christian with 3:18 left, while South's Fred Cooper fouled out with 5:40 to go.

SOUTH actually picked up the victory at the foul line. East Liverpool showed a 26-24 edge in field goals, but South made 20 of 32 from the charity stripe compared to East Liverpool's 15 of 28.

Julius Livas, a 5-10 junior, South's leading scorer, continued as such with 20 points, hitting mostly from the outside. Lindsay cashed in with 15 points while Boatwright added 10.

The defeat leaves East Liverpool at the .500 mark again with a 5-5 record, while South is 6-3 on the season.

McBride's 2 Late Fouls Give Crestview Victory

Randy McBride's two successful foul shots with only 11 seconds remaining gave Crestview a 54-52 victory at Lordstown Saturday night.

McBride's two points from the charity stripe broke a 52-52 tie which had seen Lordstown bounce back after trailing 38-30 entering the fourth quarter.

Crestview, in winning its sixth game in ten starts, only scored two points in the first period and trailed 8-2. Finding the range in the second quarter, the Rebels moved in front 20-19 at halftime and led 38-30 at the end of three sessions.

Both teams shot poorly in a game marked by many turnovers. Crestview only hit 29 per cent and Lordstown turned in a 24 per cent mark.

Orioles Sign Robinson For $35,000 Hike

BALTIMORE (AP) — Slugging outfielder Frank Robinson of the Baltimore Orioles, who is spending most of the winter picking up a lion's share of the prizes on the banquet trail, plucked off the biggest plum of the off season during the weekend, a $35,000 raise.

Robinson and Harry Dalton, director of player personnel for the Orioles, huddled for only five minutes Saturday before agreeing that Frank should receive $100,000 for the upcoming season. He got an estimated $65,000 last year.

It's doubtful Robinson will do more in '67 than he did last season, but he hopes he can be more consistent.

"I told Harry I thought I could hit for a higher average and drive in more runs next season if I would be more consistent," Robinson said.

South Rallies To Nip Potters In Last 7 Seconds, 68-67

Warriors Wipe Out Late Lead In 5th Defeat

By BOB DUFFY
Review Sports Editor

Both East Liverpool and Youngstown South tried to give the game away Saturday night at Memorial Auditorium and the Potters finally did by dropping a 68-67 decision before some 1,000 fans.

In the hectic closing minutes which saw the Potters lose a seven - point lead, both teams were guilty of numerous turnovers as the officials were busy whistling violations all over the court.

—:—

THE FINAL straw that broke the Potters' back was a field goal by South's Marv McWilson with only seven seconds remaining, which put the Warriors on top 68-67.

After McWilson's goal, East Liverpool called time out and set up a shot for Vern Smith. The Potters put the ball into play with four seconds remaining and Smith got the shot away from the side, but missed.

With 17 seconds left the Potters had taken a one-point lead, 67-66 when junior Earl Diddle calmly sank two foul shots.

IT APPEARED that East Liverpool, which held a 64-56 lead with 2:50 to go, attempted to go into a semi - freeze but lost the ball on turnovers and South got a hot hand to make a successful comeback.

The turnovers first, then the fact the Potters missed five straight fouls in the fourth quarter on the first half of a one and one situation, led directly to the defeat.

After the contest, Potter Coach Clinton McConnell pointed to the turnovers in the late stages of the game and the poor shooting from the foul line in the fourth quarter.

McConnell did not disclose how many turnovers his team had, but a reasonable guess would be 40 or more, with a good share of those mistakes in the fourth quarter and in the second period when the Potters were bothered by South's all-court press.

—:—

UP UNTIL the time the Potters slowed down their offense in the closing minutes they remained in front of South.

East Liverpool led 19-12 at the end of the first quarter, but South opened the second period with a flurry of nine straight points to get back in the contest.

The score was tied seven times in the second period, with the Potters coming out at halftime leading 35-33.

—:—

THE CONTEST continued on a nip-and-tuck basis in the third quarter and again the score was tied on four occasions, but a flurry of nine consecutive points by the Potters seemed to break the game open.

The spree started with 1:20 left in the third quarter when Mike McVay turned in a three-point play to put the Potters in front 49-47. Darryl Herring, Smith and Mitchell Jones followed with field goals to put East Liverpool ahead 55-47.

—:—

THE POTTERS remained in front for the first five minutes of the quarter and with 2:50 remaining Herring's goal gave the locals a 63-56 lead.

Tony Boatwright connected on two fouls to begin Youngstown's rally with 2:47 showing on the clock.

Lindsey scored at the 2:03 mark to bring South within three, 63-60. For the next minute the ball exchanged hands numerous times for violations, with the next field goal by Gibbs with 55 seconds to go putting the score at 63-62.

—:—

DIDDLE missed a foul shot with 47 seconds to go, but Jones put the rebound in to put the Potters on top 65-62.

With 32 seconds to go McWilson scored two fouls, bringing the Warriors within one again at 65-64.

As the Potters put the ball in play, Herring fell in backcourt and was called for walking, giving the ball to South with 26 seconds to go. Two seconds later Boatwright, a 6-4 senior, scored from under the board, sending South on top 66-65.

—:—

THE CLOCK showed 17 seconds when McWilson fouled Diddle and the 5-10 junior dropped in both fouls to put the Potters in the lead, 67-66.

McWilson fired the winning goal from inside the key about 20 feet out to decide the contest with only seven seconds remaining.

Both teams shot over 40 per cent, with East Liverpool making 26 of 56 shots for 46 per cent and Youngstown 24 of 56 for 42 per cent.

—:—

SMITH AND McVay carried the Potters' scoring load. Smith fired in 22 points in making 9 of 19 attempts from the field, while McVay cashed in with his season's high scoring 19 and played the most consistent game for the Potters. McVay made 8 of 14 shots. Jones finished in the double figures with 10 points.

The Potters lost Bruce Christian with 3:18 left, while South's Fred Cooper fouled out with 5:40 to go.

SOUTH actually picked up the victory at the foul line. East Liverpool showed a 26-24 edge in field goals, but South made 20 of 32 from the charity stripe compared to East Liverpool's 15 of 28.

Julius Livas, a 5-10 junior, South's leading scorer, continued as such with 20 points, hitting mostly from the outside. Lindsay cashed in with 15 points while Boatwright added 10.

The defeat leaves East Liverpool at the .500 mark again with a 5-5 record, while South is 6-3 on the season.

BALTIMORE (AP) — Slugging outfielder Frank Robinson of the Baltimore Orioles, who is spending most of the winter picking up a lion's share of the prizes on the banquet trail, plucked off the biggest plum of the off season during the weekend, a $35,000 raise.

Robinson and Harry Dalton, director of player personnel for the Orioles, huddled for only five minutes Saturday before agreeing that Frank should receive $100,000 for the upcoming season. He got an estimated $65,000 last year.

It's doubtful Robinson will do more in '67 than he did last season, but he hopes he can be more consistent.

"I told Harry I thought I could hit for a higher average and drive in more runs next season if I would be more consistent," Robinson said.

Packers Roll In 2nd Half To Crush Chiefs, 35-10

By JACK HAND
Associated Press Sports Writer

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Vince Lombardi thinks the Kansas City Chiefs simply don't rate with the top teams in the National Football League after watching his Green Bay Packers whip the American Football League champs in Sunday's first Super Bowl game.

"They have a good football team with fine speed but I'd have to say that NFL football is tougher," said Coach Lombardi following the Packers' 35-10 victory before a rather disappointing crowd of 63,036 at the Memorial Coliseum.

The game was supposed to prove which league played the best ball and the NFL came out of this first prestige test with flying colors.

Hank Stram, coach of the Chiefs, paid his respects to the Packers as an excellent team but he maintained, "One game is not a true test of the abilities of both leagues."

Perhaps the best comment of all was made by Lamar Hunt, owner of the Chiefs, founder of the AFL and a major factor in the merger of the two leagues.

"I'm disappointed," said Hunt. "I told somebody they didn't keep the time right. The first half didn't run long enough and the second half ran too long."

At the end of the half the Packers clung to a precarious 14-10 lead and had been outgained by the Chiefs.

In the second half the NFL champs manhandled Len Dawson, the Chiefs' quarterback, and dominated play by a 21-0 edge.

Willie Wood's interception of a Dawson pass early in the third quarter was the first indication that the Packers were aroused. In the first half they had failed to pressure Dawson and let him scramble around.

Wood rambled 50 yards to the Chiefs' five after picking off the pass that was deflected by Lee Roy Caffey. Elijah Pitts went in on the next play and the Packers were on their way.

Bart Starr had a tremendous day, picking out receivers or calling the right ball carrier on those important third down situations. Of 14 third down calls in the game, Starr produced first downs 11 times. He was named the Most Valuable Player of the game and winner of a special sports car award by a magazine.

Starr threw two touchdown passes to 34-year-old Max McGee, who caught only four passes during the regular season. The 11-year-veteran led the receivers with seven for 138 yards including the scoring plays of 37 and 13 yards.

On most of his catches the victim was Willie Mitchell, a corner back who was signalled out for special attention in the Packers' game play.

McGee got into the game when Boyd Dowler, the regular flanker, suffered an injury to his right shoulder on the third play of the game.

"It was our game plan to throw a lot to the receiver on the weak side," said McGee. "I just happened to be the one."

Talking about the first TD pass that he caught one-handed, McGee said, "I was so surprised that I expected to open my other hand and find a silver dollar."

Starr completed 16 of 23 for 25 yards and two TDs but also had one intercepted by Mitchell, his first in 173 tosses since Oct. 16. He also had a 64-yard touchdown pass to Carroll Dale called back because of a penalty.

Jim Taylor, who still has not signed his 1966 contract and may have played his last game for the Packers, stormed home from the 14 in the second period.

Elijah Pitts, who took Paul Hornung's place, scored twice from the five and one. Hornung, suffering from a pinched nerve in his neck but supposedly available for duty, did not get into the game.

Several of the Packers reportedly have been thinking of calling it quits but the rich postseason rewards ($15,000 for winning the Super Bowl, plus about $8,500 for beating Dallas for the NFL title) may make them change their minds. McGee was one of those who said he planned to retire.

The failure to sell out the Coliseum for this game was blamed on the ticket scale ($12, 10, 6) and a backlash from fans about the local area being blacked out on television. Another factor was the late date in announcing the site of the game due to prlonged negotiations with the TV networks, two of which (NBC and CBS) finally did a joint telecast.

When Dawson was not pressured strongly in the first half he was able to hit with 11 of 15 including a seven-yarder to Curt McClinton for a touchdown.

Mike Mercer, who missed with a 40-yard field goal attempt in the first period, made good from 30 yards out in the dying seconds of the first half.

The Chiefs never got closer than the Packers' 44 in the second half and that was after Pete Beathard had taken over for Dawson at quarterback. Dawson wound up with 16 of 27 for 211 yards. The two Kansas City quarterbacks were dumped six times for 61 yards, trying to pass.

Max McGee Hero In Packers' Win

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Max McGee had three wishes, but without a genie it's doubtful if his last two will work out as well as his first.

Wish No. 1 was to play for the Packers in the Super Bowl against the Green Bay Packers. Wish No. 2 was to go on a honeymoon. Wish No. 3 was to retire.

The first worked out sensationally when the 34-year-old veteran of 11 National Football League seasons came off the bench and played a hero's role as the Packers whipped the Kansas City Chiefs 35-10 Sunday in the first Super Bowl game.

The second almost certainly will not happen since the honeymoon McGee wants to go on is Paul Hornung's. And the third remains doubtful since the final word on his retirement probably rests with Coach Vince Lombardi.

In the Green Bay dressing room after his key performance, McGee spoke softly with more than a trace of a Southern drawl in the cubicle he was sharing with Hornung.

"I figured I was going to play some," McGee said, "but there are plenty of times when things are going good that you don't get in, so I really didn't know. My legs are still good but the old windpipe gives me trouble now.

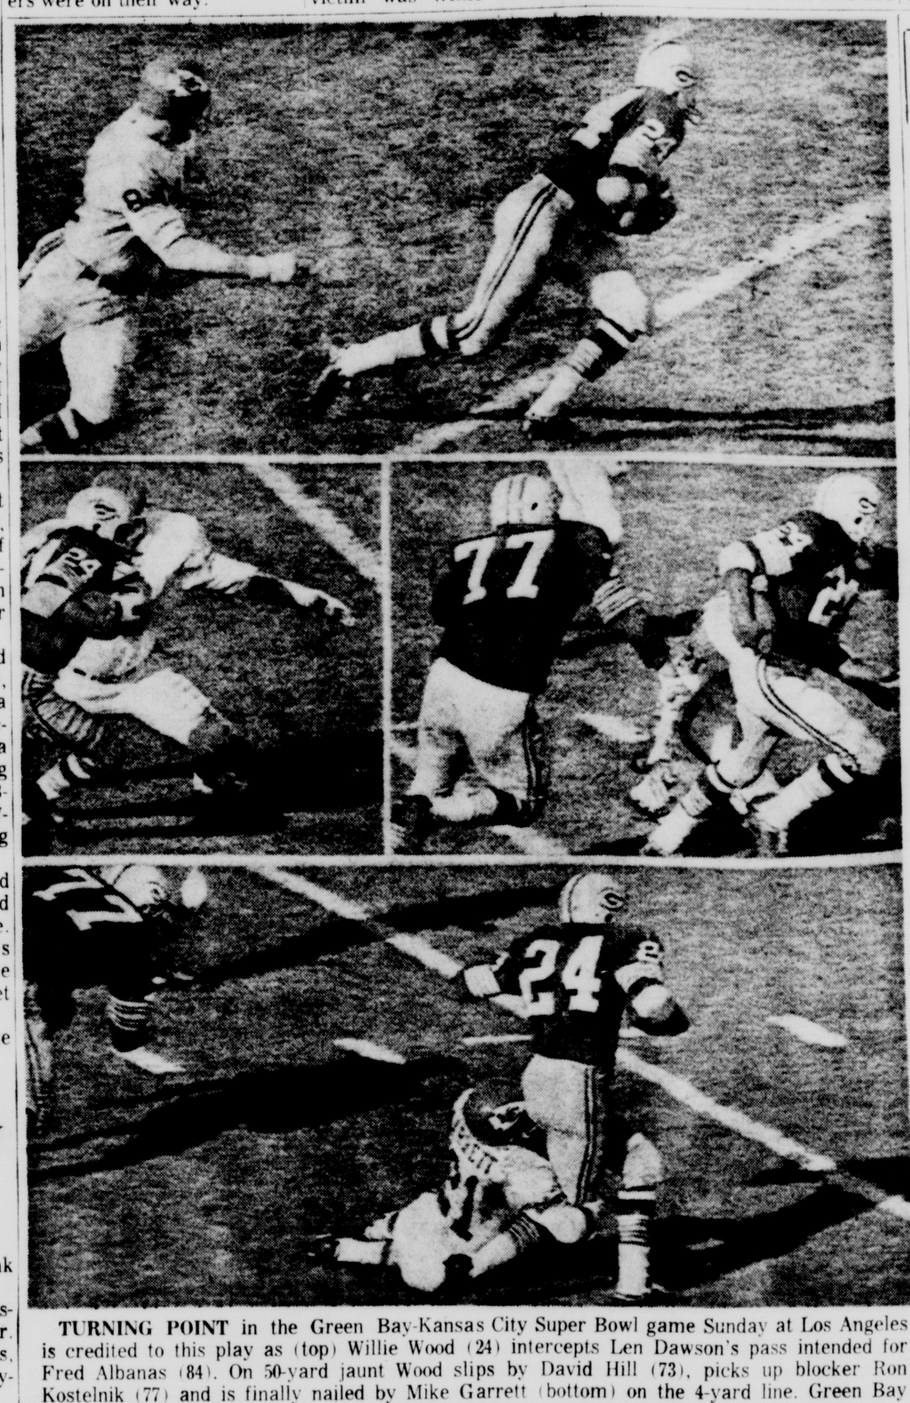

"The last couple of years I've played only infrequently. When you do that, you can't really stay in the best of shape. I don't get there as fast as I used to as a result, but I still get to the right spot, and that's what's important."

McGee got to the right spot seven times against the Chiefs, pulling in 138 yards worth of passes, scoring twice and pulling in strikes from Bart Starr in key situations during two other Green Bay drives.

McGee grabbed a 37-yard pass from the first touchdown, caught an 11-yard pass on a third down play during the second touchdown march, snared a 11 and 16-yarders before scoring the fourth touchdown on a 13-yard pass and pulled in a 37-yarder during the fifth scoring drive.

"Fantastic. That's Max," said Hornung when McGee slipped out of the cubicle for a minute. "He makes the big play. He's been around a long time and he has an uncanny ability to get across the goal line.

"He's as dangerous inside the 40 as anyone playing."

Wood's Interception Key Play In Packers' Victory

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Few would say today there was any one real turning point in Green Bay's 35-10 victory over the Kansas City Chiefs in the Super Bowl Sunday.

But a key point certainly came when the Packers' Willie Wood intercepted a Len Dawson pass intended for Fred Arbanas and, in an electrifying run, ran it back 50 yards to the Chiefs' five.

One burst by Elijah Pitts put it across and what had been a 14-10 Green Bay lead became 21-10.

"We knew they'd pass on a third down and five and I was ready," said Wood, performing in the same Memorial Coliseum where he starred for the University of Southern California.

The ball was deflected, Wood revealed, "and I thought it would never come down."

It was another ex-USC Trojan, Mike Garrett, who hauled Willie down.

Wood then disclosed that Green Bay has a policy of setting up an opponent for a kill, giving away passes to the outside for short yardage — and then hawking in when the enemy thinks it has found a weak point in the defense.

Green Bay's postgame dressing room was typically Packer. There were broad smiles, friendly back slapping but anything but riotous.

Coach Vince Lombardi, repeatedly pressed for comparison between his National and the American League, finally said:

"Kansas City has a real top team but I don't think it compares with the top teams in the National Football League.

"That's what you wanted me to say — now I've said it."

Lombardi said there were no adjustments made at halftime.

"We just played more aggressive football in the second half," he said, fondling the game ball presented him by the players.

"I don't know what a key play is," the coach continued. He added with a smile, "I'd say it was the touchdown they called back."

He referred to a 64-yard scoring pass from Bart Starr to Carroll Dale which was nullified by an illegal motion. An interior lineman made it but Lombardi politely declined to identify the offender.

Princeton Tops Ivy Loop, Kentucky In SEC's Cellar

By DICK COUCH
Associated Press Sports Writer

Princeton's tall Tigers may be outgrowing the Ivy League, but Kentucky has been squeezed into an uncomfortable fit in the tough Southeastern Conference.

While Princeton, the nation's seventh-ranked college basketball power, humiliated Harvard and Dartmouth last weekend for a 4-0 perch atop the Ivy standings, No. 10-ranked Florida belted Kentucky 89-72 and tumbled the Wildcats into the SEC cellar.

The Tigers, seeking their fourth Ivy championship in the last five seasons, buried Harvard 90-46 Friday night and then shattered league scoring and rebounding records in mauling Dartmouth 116-42 Saturday night.

Ed Hummer, the Tigers' 6-foot-6 captain, scored 20 points and 6-9 soph Chris Thomforde hit for 19, leading the point deluge which wiped out the old Ivy record of 110 set last season by Cornell against Dartmouth. Princeton's 90 rebounds also set a single-game mark, eclipsing Yale's 1959 record by two.

Thomforde netted 37 points in the weekend sweep while Hummer had 29, Haarlow 28, Gary Walters 27, Joe Heiser 25 and Robby Brown, the 6-foot-9 reserve center, 21.

Beaten only by second-ranked Louisville in 14 starts, the Ivy giants appear certain to go up in the national rankings this week.

Kentucky, however, may be headed for its worst finish in Coach Adolph Rupp's 37-year reign after absorbing its third loss in three SEC starts and slipping to 5-6 over-all.

The Wildcats were 32-2 last season, bowing to Texas Western in the NCAA final. They have won or shared 22 conference titles in 34 years and have never finished in the basement.

Florida, which has never worn the SEC crown, raced to its sixth league victory against one setback as Gary Keller and David Miller each canned 23 points.

The Gators, 11-1 on the season, entertain Tennessee while Kentucky visits Georgia in SEC games tonight.

Top-ranked UCLA and four other titans won Saturday night but No. 3 New Mexico bowed to Denver 71-66 for its second loss in two nights.

Dawson's Not Convinced Packers The Better Team

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Len Dawson, veteran quarterback of the American Football League champion Kansas City Chiefs, spoke affirmatively:

"I don't think our performance in the second half is an indication of the strength of our league.

"I'm not convinced they're a better football team than we are. I think we compare favorably with them."

The Chiefs were beaten harshly, 35-10, Sunday by the Green Bay Packers, titlists of the National Football League, in the Super Bowl — the first competition between the rival professional leagues.

But Kansas City, a two-touchdown underdog, fought its NFL counterpart on even terms in the first half, yielding only when Green Bay's Willie Wood intercepted a pass to set up a touchdown early in the third quarter. The score put the Packers ahead 21-10, and they rolled from there.

Kansas City Coach Hank Stram said, "At halftime, I thought we could come back and win it. We played well in the first half, but the interception seemed to change the personality of the game. Once we got behind, we had to deviate from our game plan."

Dawson, a 10-year veteran of pro football, wished he had a second chance. "I shouldn't have thrown it," he said of the intercepted pass. "Their blitz bothered me, and I didn't have any zing on the ball. I shouldn't have thrown it."

Insisting his team may be as good as Green Bay, Dawson conceded that the Packers are better than any AFL club the Chiefs have faced.

Stram was likewise complimentary as he spoke softly from a corner of the crowded locker-room. "I was very impressed with the Packers," he said. "They're great offensively and defensively. Everybody knows this. You don't give them anything the easy way. We did, and it lost for us."

Coach Vince Lombardi, repeatedly pressed for comparison between his National and the American League, finally said:

"Kansas City has a real top team but I don't think it compares with the top teams in the National Football League.

"That's what you wanted me to say — now I've said it."

Lombardi said there were no adjustments made at halftime.

"We just played more aggressive football in the second half," he said, fondling the game ball presented him by the players.

"I don't know what a key play is," the coach continued. He added with a smile, "I'd say it was the touchdown they called back."

He referred to a 64-yard scoring pass from Bart Starr to Carroll Dale which was nullified by an illegal motion. An interior lineman made it but Lombardi politely declined to identify the offender.

Dawson's Not Convinced Packers The Better Team

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Len Dawson, veteran quarterback of the American Football League champion Kansas City Chiefs, spoke affirmatively:

"I don't think our performance in the second half is an indication of the strength of our league.

"I'm not convinced they're a better football team than we are. I think we compare favorably with them."

The Chiefs were beaten harshly, 35-10, Sunday by the Green Bay Packers, titlists of the National Football League, in the Super Bowl — the first competition between the rival professional leagues.

But Kansas City, a two-touchdown underdog, fought its NFL counterpart on even terms in the first half, yielding only when Green Bay's Willie Wood intercepted a pass to set up a touchdown early in the third quarter. The score put the Packers ahead 21-10, and they rolled from there.

Kansas City Coach Hank Stram said, "At halftime, I thought we could come back and win it. We played well in the first half, but the interception seemed to change the personality of the game. Once we got behind, we had to deviate from our game plan."

Dawson, a 10-year veteran of pro football, wished he had a second chance. "I shouldn't have thrown it," he said of the intercepted pass. "Their blitz bothered me, and I didn't have any zing on the ball. I shouldn't have thrown it."

Insisting his team may be as good as Green Bay, Dawson conceded that the Packers are better than any AFL club the Chiefs have faced.

Stram was likewise complimentary as he spoke softly from a corner of the crowded locker-room. "I was very impressed with the Packers," he said. "They're great offensively and defensively. Everybody knows this. You don't give them anything the easy way. We did, and it lost for us."

Princeton Tops Ivy Loop, Kentucky In SEC's Cellar

By DICK COUCH
Associated Press Sports Writer

Princeton's tall Tigers may be outgrowing the Ivy League, but Kentucky has been squeezed into an uncomfortable fit in the tough Southeastern Conference.

While Princeton, the nation's seventh-ranked college basketball power, humiliated Harvard and Dartmouth last weekend for a 4-0 perch atop the Ivy standings, No. 10-ranked Florida belted Kentucky 89-72 and tumbled the Wildcats into the SEC cellar.

The Tigers, seeking their fourth Ivy championship in the last five seasons, buried Harvard 90-46 Friday night and then shattered league scoring and rebounding records in mauling Dartmouth 116-42 Saturday night.

Ed Hummer, the Tigers' 6-foot-6 captain, scored 20 points and 6-9 soph Chris Thomforde hit for 19, leading the point deluge which wiped out the old Ivy record of 110 set last season by Cornell against Dartmouth. Princeton's 90 rebounds also set a single-game mark, eclipsing Yale's 1959 record by two.

Thomforde netted 37 points in the weekend sweep while Hummer had 29, Haarlow 28, Gary Walters 27, Joe Heiser 25 and Robby Brown, the 6-foot-9 reserve center, 21.

Beaten only by second-ranked Louisville in 14 starts, the Ivy giants appear certain to go up in the national rankings this week.

Kentucky, however, may be headed for its worst finish in Coach Adolph Rupp's 37-year reign after absorbing its third loss in three SEC starts and slipping to 5-6 over-all.

The Wildcats were 32-2 last season, bowing to Texas Western in the NCAA final. They have won or shared 22 conference titles in 34 years and have never finished in the basement.

Florida, which has never worn the SEC crown, raced to its sixth league victory against one setback as Gary Keller and David Miller each canned 23 points.

The Gators, 11-1 on the season, entertain Tennessee while Kentucky visits Georgia in SEC games tonight.

Top-ranked UCLA and four other titans won Saturday night but No. 3 New Mexico bowed to Denver 71-66 for its second loss in two nights.

Columbiana's Late Spurt Defeats Lisbon 71 To 69

LISBON — The Lisbon Blue Devils carried a lead into the fourth quarter in Saturday night's game with Columbiana here, but lost 71-69 to the visitors.

Don Blair posted 34 points for his highest season game score for Lisbon which chalked up its eighth loss this year, having won two.

The win by Columbiana gave them four wins to six losses.

The Columbiana reserve squad bested their hosts, 63-36.

Republicans Pour Into Harrisburg

Gov-Elect Shafer Waits Inauguration On Tuesday

HARRISBURG (AP) — Republicans from all parts of the state began converging on Harrisburg today for Tuesday's inauguration of Gov.-elect Raymond P. Shafer.

Although the main event doesn't take place until Tuesday, there was plenty on today's political agenda to command their interest.

Leading off the agenda was a meeting of the 126-member Republican State Committee for the election of a new GOP state chairman.

Shafer previously said New Castle Mayor John C. Jordan was his personal choice for the post. Historically, the committee goes along with the wish of a governor-elect.

Meanwhile, the Senate Democratic caucus slated an afternoon meeting to discuss Shafer's cabinet appointments. Seven Democratic votes are needed to swing a Senate confirmation.

Ending today's activity is a $100-a-plate "Shafer Victory Dinner" in the Farm Show Building sponsored by the Republican Finance Committee of Pennsylvania.

A GOP spokesman said some 4,000 party faithful were expected to attend the dinner and hear an address by freshman U. S. Sen. Charles H. Percy. Percy is one of several being discussed as a possible Republican presidential candidate.

Shafer and Gov. Scranton also planned to attend the affair which is designed to wipe out the party's campaign debt estimated in the neighborhood of $400,000.

The Farm Show Building also is the site for Tuesday's oath-taking and the Inaugural Ball.

Immediately after the annual Pennsylvania Farm Show wound up Friday afternoon, crews moved into the huge building to prepare for this week's activities.

County Carries 13,400 Students On School Buses

LISBON — Columbiana County has approximately 13,400 students riding school buses, according to Zygmont Rataiczak of Steubenville, district coordinator of school transportation.

He discussed the county school administrators Friday noon at the Wick Hotel.

He said the county is transporting 728 non-public school children and 12,615 public school students.

Buses travel 5,849 miles daily on public school runs and an additional 178 miles daily to transport parochial pupils. Statewide, public school buses are transporting 129,000 parochial students, he said.

School buses have been involved in seven traffic accidents in Columbiana County this school year, Rataiczak said.

J. L. McBride, superintendent of county schools, presided as chairman of the group which is made up of all superintendents in the county.

He announced the county office will sponsor a cooperative purchasing program on 14 basic items such as paper, stencils chalk and other supplies. His office will ask for bids and place the orders. He invited all school districts to participate.

By The Associated Press

Ohio's traffic death toll leveled off to about normal proportions over the weekend following the high death rate periods of the holidays.

At least 17 lives were lost on the state's highways and streets between 6 p.m. Friday-Sunday midnight.

The worst accident was in the Cleveland suburb of Euclid where a car-train wreck claimed the lives of a Danish family which had been living temporarily in Euclid.

The deaths from noon Saturday:

Iskender Tarhan, 33; his wife, Anna Lise, 33, and their daughter, Karen, 1, Copenhagen Denmark when a freight train rammed their car at a crossing in Euclid.

Thomas D. Griffiths, 49, Mayfield Heights, and Thomas S. Phillips, 22, of Burton, when their cars collided head-on on Ohio 322 near Chardon. Griffiths was executive director of the Cleveland Hospital Council.

Mrs. Elbert Blankenbeckly, 27, Shelby, in a two-car collision north of Mansfield.

G. Kim Wray, 39, of Holland, Ohio, in a one - car accident north of Bowling Green.

53 Homeless In Fires At Pittsburgh

PITTSBURGH (AP)—A total of 53 persons were left homeless today as the result of multiple-alarm fires Sunday in separate sections of the city.

A general alarm fire caused an estimated $65,000 damage as it destroyed seven, three-story row houses in the Shereden section. Forty persons escaped to safety. No injuries were reported.

Officials said the fire refugees were taken into homes of relatives.

Michael Woodrow, 13, told police he turned on a television set in his family's apartment and it exploded, setting the room afire before spreading to the other houses.

Fire Chief Harry Keller, who set the damage, said there was a possibility that leaking oxygen cylinders in a neighboring apartment may have been a factor, but he said an investigation would be necessary before that could be determined.

In the second fire, a four-alarm blaze, 13 persons fled to safety as flames roared through an eight-family complex in the Hill District.

One fireman suffered minor injuries.

Keller, who estimated damages at $20,000, said the blaze started in a first-floor apartment and shot up the staircases and into the attic.

Firemen, hampered by high winds and freezing temperatures, brought the blaze under control in 90 minutes.

The homeless were being cared for by the Salvation Army.

Water is so precious in parts of the Sudan that drillers dig 250 feet to find it.

Bahamas Has First Negro Government

NASSAU, Bahamas (AP) — These sunny islands get their first Negro government today. But despite the political questions, life proceeded as before.

Tourists who jammed Nassau rode down Bay Street apparently as oblivious to the political turnover as were the horses wearing straw hats and pulling pink surreys.

But among residents in the 700-island chain stretching from near Florida to near Cuba, the talk was about Premier-designate Lynden O. Pindling, who pulled the election upset of Bahamas' history.

Will his party embark on radical policies that could rock a tourist-laden prosperity boat or will it tread cautiously?

In the native straw market, one of the women who make hats to sell to tourists, remarked: "We have a government now that is for the people and not for themselves. Now we are going to have price controls and low-cost houses and better schools and hospital facilities."

In bigger business circles, there was some apprehension.

Pindling, 36, London-trained barrister whose Progressive Liberal party won a resounding election victory over the white-dominated United Bahamian party said: "We are not going to cut our throat. Business interests, tourists and investors have nothing to fear.

"We will open our doors to legitimate English and American industry and thus take the present stranglehold away from the minority that controls the economic welfare of the country."

The premier-designate said tourism, the principal Bahamas industry, should be increased by extending airline, cruiseship and harbor facilities and providing convention quarters.

Last year, 850,000 tourists visited this sub-tropical haven only minutes by plane from the United States.

Pindling becomes the first Negro chief executive of this British colony of 115,000 Negroes and 30,000 whites. Yet, the race issue rarely reached the surface in the election campaign.

17 More Killed In Ohio Traffic

By The Associated Press

Ohio's traffic death toll leveled off to about normal proportions over the weekend following the high death rate periods of the holidays.

At least 17 lives were lost on the state's highways and streets between 6 p.m. Friday-Sunday midnight.

During the four weekend periods of January 1966, not counting New Year's, the death tolls were 8,11, 22 and 16.

Iskender Tarhan, 33; his wife, Anna Lise, 33, and their daughter, Karen, 1, Copenhagen Denmark when a freight train rammed their car at a crossing in Euclid.

Thomas D. Griffiths, 49, Mayfield Heights, and Thomas S. Phillips, 22, of Burton, when their cars collided head-on on Ohio 322 near Chardon. Griffiths was executive director of the Cleveland Hospital Council.

53 Homeless In Fires At Pittsburgh

PITTSBURGH (AP)—A total of 53 persons were left homeless today as the result of multiple-alarm fires Sunday in separate sections of the city.

A general alarm fire caused an estimated $65,000 damage as it destroyed seven, three-story row houses in the Shereden section. Forty persons escaped to safety. No injuries were reported.

Officials said the fire refugees were taken into homes of relatives.

Michael Woodrow, 13, told police he turned on a television set in his family's apartment and it exploded, setting the room afire before spreading to the other houses.

Fire Chief Harry Keller, who set the damage, said there was a possibility that leaking oxygen cylinders in a neighboring apartment may have been a factor, but he said an investigation would be necessary before that could be determined.

In the second fire, a four-alarm blaze, 13 persons fled to safety as flames roared through an eight-family complex in the Hill District.

One fireman suffered minor injuries.

Keller, who estimated damages at $20,000, said the blaze started in a first-floor apartment and shot up the staircases and into the attic.

Firemen, hampered by high winds and freezing temperatures, brought the blaze under control in 90 minutes.

The homeless were being cared for by the Salvation Army.

Bahamas Has First Negro Government

NASSAU, Bahamas (AP) — These sunny islands get their first Negro government today. But despite the political questions, life proceeded as before.

Tourists who jammed Nassau rode down Bay Street apparently as oblivious to the political turnover as were the horses wearing straw hats and pulling pink surreys.

But among residents in the 700-island chain stretching from near Florida to near Cuba, the talk was about Premier-designate Lynden O. Pindling, who pulled the election upset of Bahamas' history.

Will his party embark on radical policies that could rock a tourist-laden prosperity boat or will it tread cautiously?

In the native straw market, one of the women who make hats to sell to tourists, remarked: "We have a government now that is for the people and not for themselves. Now we are going to have price controls and low-cost houses and better schools and hospital facilities."

In bigger business circles, there was some apprehension.

Pindling, 36, London-trained barrister whose Progressive Liberal party won a resounding election victory over the white-dominated United Bahamian party said: "We are not going to cut our throat. Business interests, tourists and investors have nothing to fear.

"We will open our doors to legitimate English and American industry and thus take the present stranglehold away from the minority that controls the economic welfare of the country."

The premier-designate said tourism, the principal Bahamas industry, should be increased by extending airline, cruiseship and harbor facilities and providing convention quarters.

Last year, 850,000 tourists visited this sub-tropical haven only minutes by plane from the United States.

Pindling becomes the first Negro chief executive of this British colony of 115,000 Negroes and 30,000 whites. Yet, the race issue rarely reached the surface in the election campaign.

Junior Editors Quiz on MOTHER GOOSE

QUESTION:: Who was Mother Goose?

★ ★ ★

ANSWER: We wish we could tell you who the charming old lady of the Mother Goose rhymes actually was: but it seems she was not an actual person but a mythical character. True, there is a stone in Boston, marked Goose, which some claim marks the grave of Elizabeth Vergoose, the actual Mother Goose; but scholars doubt that Mother Goose lies here. In 1697, in France, a little book of folk stories was published with a front picture showing an old woman spinning and telling stories to children; it was called "Tales of Past Times, by Mother Goose." The book soon appeared in an English translation, and more rhymes were added. A number of these had been originated to poke fun at great lords and ladies. For example: Queen Elizabeth was supposed to tease like a cat. She liked dancing to a fiddle. One of her court had the nickname Moon, another, Lap-dog. A lady who tasted her food first was called Spoon. The gentleman who carried dishes was Dish. One day, Spoon and Dish eloped. So someone wrote the jingle ending "And the dish ran away with the spoon."

★ ★ ★

FOR YOU TO DO: Read the Mother Goose rhyme beginning "Hey diddle, diddle," checking with the nicknames above. You'll understand it better.

Medical Expenses Will Be Changed

By RAY DE CRANE
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

If you are 65 or older or if you are furnishing the chief support of a parent who is 65 or older, this is the last year in which you can obtain a 100 per cent deduction for you or your parent's medical expenses. Beginning next year new rules will be in effect.

Here are the rules for filing your 1966 return which is due by April 17, 1967 (the customary 15th deadline is a Saturday):

If You and Your Wife Are Under 65

You will receive a medical deduction only for those medical and dental expenses which exceed 3 per cent of your adjusted gross income (the amount you enter on Line 9, Page 1, of your Form 1040). The cost of medicines and drugs is included in your medical expense tabulation to the extent it exceeds 1 per cent of adjusted gross income.

In compiling your list include all medical expenses for yourself, your wife and all your dependents.

If You or Your Wife Is 65 or Older

All medical expenses (with in the maximum limitations listed later in this article) are fully deductible without regard to the 3 per cent and 1 per cent rules. (This is where the big change will occur next year; on returns filed in April, 1968, senior citizens will have to follow the same 3 per cent and 1 per cent rules which apply to other taxpayers.)

If a Dependent Parent Is 65 or Older

All the medical expenses you paid for such a parent in 1966 are fully deductible. List them separately from those expenses incurred by yourself, your wife and your dependent children.

In this way you will receive full dollar-for-dollar credit on the parent's medical bills. Your own family's expenses will be subject to the usual 1 per cent and 3 per cent rules.

And remember this big break: If you furnished the chief support for a parent, you can obtain complete deduction for all medical expenses you paid for the parent even if you are not entitled to claim the parent as a dependent because he had $600 or more income.

For example, you paid a surgeon's fee of $1,500 for your mother, who is over 65, and who had $1,000 in dividend income. Since her income was greater than $600, she does not qualify as your dependent. But because of that $1,500 payment, you furnished her chief support. Therefore, you can get a full medical deduction for the $1,500.

Here are the maximum limitations on the medical deduction:

In general, the limit is $5,000 multiplied by the number of exemptions (but not counting the extra exemptions for age or blindness), and with this top limit:

For single people who are not head of a household or a surviving spouse — $10,000.

For married persons filing separate returns — $10,000.

For married persons filing a joint return, or for a head of a household or a surviving spouse —$20,000.

Regardless of your age, this is the type of medical expense you may include in your tabulation:

Ambulance hire; braces, crutches, artificial limbs; dentist's fees; doctor's fees; eyeglasses and examination; false teeth; health and accident insurance; hearing aids; hospital expenses; hospital insurance; laboratory fees; nurse's fees; physical therapy treatments; transportation; X-ray fees.

(NEXT: Contributions.)

Auto Injures Chester Man

A 63-year-old Chester man told police he was injured when bumped by a backing auto as he crossed E. 6th St. near Crook Alley Saturday at 5 p. m.

Clarence Erwin of 93 Railroad St., Chester, told officers he was crossing the street through a line of halted traffic when the backing car "hit me and kept going." He gave police the license number of the auto which allegedly hit him, along with a description.

Officers said Doris Ann Tatgenhorst, 21, of Yeager Dr., Glenmoor, appeared at headquarters Sunday at 6:25 p. m. and reported she had received a telephone call from a woman telling her that her auto had hit Erwin. The Glenmoor woman denied her car had hit the pedestrian, officers said. She said a man walked behind her halted car, "hit it with his hand and then got into his own auto."

Erwin was examined at City Hospital and then released.

More Testimony Slated Today In Strangler's Case

CAMBRIDGE, Mass. (AP) — Testimony resumes today in the trial of Albert DeSalvo, the self-styled Boston strangler, as the prosecution planned to present psychiatrists to counter the defense plea of insanity.

DeSalvo went on trial last Tuesday on charges of sexually assaulting four women in their suburban Boston homes in 1964. None of the charges is related to the killings of 13 women in eastern Massachusetts between June 1962 and January 1964.

DeSalvo's attorney, F. Lee Bailey of Boston, called two psychiatrists last week in support of his claim that DeSalvo was insane when the acts were committed.

The four women identified DeSalvo as their attacker. Bailey did not question their testimony.

Small whole fish that are being broiled should be turned so both sides are well browned.

Firemen Are Called As Car Burns Twice

A 1957 model car operated by Gene Morrell of McKee St. caught fire twice Sunday.

City firemen received the first call at 10:49 a. m., when the vehicle caught fire at 227 W. 7th St., and then again at 9 p.m. at 1330 St. Clair Ave.

A backfire through the carburetor was blamed for both incidents. The fire was out on arrival the first time, but firemen had to extinguish the second blaze.

'Act Of Revenge' Cited Cause Of Five Fire Deaths

CLEVELAND (AP)—"An act of revenge" in a domestic argument has been blamed by Cleveland fire officials in a fire late Friday night that took five lives and left 10 families homeless.

A woman was being questioned today by police.

Four children died of suffocation and were found the night of the fire. The fifth victim, a woman identified as Glarvine Youngblood, 42, was found on the second floor of the three-story brick building Saturday.

The children, sons and daughters of Mrs. Doris Demore, were identified as Ethel, 6; Mathew, 3, Gwendolyn, 2, and William, 11 months.

"This was an act of revenge," said Capt. John R. Lyons of the arson squad. "One woman was mad at another (in the building) because her husband was seeing her. We have established that a woman purchased a can of gasoline at a gas station in the neighborhood."

Medical Expenses Will Be Changed

By RAY DE CRANE
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

If you are 65 or older or if you are furnishing the chief support of a parent who is 65 or older, this is the last year in which you can obtain a 100 per cent deduction for you or your parent's medical expenses. Beginning next year new rules will be in effect.

Here are the rules for filing your 1966 return which is due by April 17, 1967 (the customary 15th deadline is a Saturday):

If You and Your Wife Are Under 65

You will receive a medical deduction only for those medical and dental expenses which exceed 3 per cent of your adjusted gross income (the amount you enter on Line 9, Page 1, of your Form 1040). The cost of medicines and drugs is included in your medical expense tabulation to the extent it exceeds 1 per cent of adjusted gross income.

In compiling your list include all medical expenses for yourself, your wife and all your dependents.

If You or Your Wife Is 65 or Older

All medical expenses (with in the maximum limitations listed later in this article) are fully deductible without regard to the 3 per cent and 1 per cent rules. (This is where the big change will occur next year; on returns filed in April, 1968, senior citizens will have to follow the same 3 per cent and 1 per cent rules which apply to other taxpayers.)

If a Dependent Parent Is 65 or Older

All the medical expenses you paid for such a parent in 1966 are fully deductible. List them separately from those expenses incurred by yourself, your wife and your dependent children.

In this way you will receive full dollar-for-dollar credit on the parent's medical bills. Your own family's expenses will be subject to the usual 1 per cent and 3 per cent rules.

And remember this big break: If you furnished the chief support for a parent, you can obtain complete deduction for all medical expenses you paid for the parent even if you are not entitled to claim the parent as a dependent because he had $600 or more income.

For example, you paid a surgeon's fee of $1,500 for your mother, who is over 65, and who had $1,000 in dividend income. Since her income was greater than $600, she does not qualify as your dependent. But because of that $1,500 payment, you furnished her chief support. Therefore, you can get a full medical deduction for the $1,500.

Here are the maximum limitations on the medical deduction:

In general, the limit is $5,000 multiplied by the number of exemptions (but not counting the extra exemptions for age or blindness), and with this top limit:

For single people who are not head of a household or a surviving spouse — $10,000.

For married persons filing separate returns — $10,000.

For married persons filing a joint return, or for a head of a household or a surviving spouse —$20,000.

Regardless of your age, this is the type of medical expense you may include in your tabulation:

Auto Injures Chester Man

A 63-year-old Chester man told police he was injured when bumped by a backing auto as he crossed E. 6th St. near Crook Alley Saturday at 5 p. m.

Clarence Erwin of 93 Railroad St., Chester, told officers he was crossing the street through a line of halted traffic when the backing car "hit me and kept going." He gave police the license number of the auto which allegedly hit him, along with a description.

Officers said Doris Ann Tatgenhorst, 21, of Yeager Dr., Glenmoor, appeared at headquarters Sunday at 6:25 p. m. and reported she had received a telephone call from a woman telling her that her auto had hit Erwin. The Glenmoor woman denied her car had hit the pedestrian, officers said. She said a man walked behind her halted car, "hit it with his hand and then got into his own auto."

Erwin was examined at City Hospital and then released.
